ARTHUR SEARS HENNING, Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(Special)—With sixty-nine Republicans and the President's leadership, the navigation ship subsidy bill was passed by the house today by a margin of twenty-four votes. There were 134 members for and 134 against the bill in the final roll call. Only four members voted for it.

Revisions to the final vote a motion was made to bill back to committee with directions to strike out the sections giving cash subsidies and giving exemptions was rejected by a vote of 131 to 25.

The bill now goes to the senate,
where it will be taken up by the senate committee on commerce on Monday morning. Senator Jones (Wash.), chairman of the committee, said he hoped to get the bill to the senate within tion on the floor of the senate before the end of the next week.

cast can be made as to final action in the senate, where a filibuster may prevent approval of either the bill or the house report before the present session comes to an end on March 4.

Liquor Provision Dropped.

The house, at the instance of the Senate, eliminated the liquor provision which was placed in the bill yesterday.
The liquor restriction provided that a state should not receive a subsidy unless on which liquor was manufactured or sold with the consent of the owner, charterer, agent or master. The amendment was defeated yesterday on the motion of Representative Edmonds (Pa.), who in the fight in behalf of the navigation ship subsidy plan as a means for a more drastic liquor restriction proposed by Representative Edmunds (Ala.), who was devoted to it, but was furthered rather than strengthened the liquor law which has been construed by Attorney General Daugherty as prohibiting the sale of liquor on American ships. The Edmonds amendment, it was pointed out, might be interpreted as meaning that vessels not receiving liquor might not liquor.

Frances Make the Change.

Representative Cranton (Mich.), a leader, asked the house to eliminate the Edmonds amendment and this was done.

CURZON ASSAILED BY ALD. BYRNE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1922.

BY EDWARD DONERTY,
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(Special.)—The third jury to try Arthur C.
Burton for the murder of J. Bolton Kennedy disagreed tonight and was discharged. Judge John W. Sheek "continued" the case until Tuesday morning "to be reset." It is not generally believed that either Burton or Mrs.
Madelynn Obenchain, indicted with him, will ever be tried again.

Five juries have heard the evidence in the case and all have disagreed.
Burton and Madelynn have spent more than fifteen months in jail. Eight months have been spent in the actual trialing of their cases.

The jury in the final ballot today was seven to five for acquittal, according to the foreman, A. W. Tuttle, but on some ballots it had stood eight to four. Two men and two women voted consistently against the constitution to be defeated.
The remaining juror, a woman, voted, however, for acquittal.

The alderman, who is a former street car conductor and coal mine mucker, used the British peer and member of the house of lords as "a shining example of the use of American money against American interests." Ald. Byrne asked for a state law to permit municipalities to collect a 5% per cent tax on incomes of foreign nobility derived from stocks, bonds or property held in trust in Illinois. Burton and Madelynn have spent more than fifteen months in jail. Eight months have been spent in the actual
trialing of their cases.

Madelynn, as the husband of Mary Victoria Letter of Chicago, daughter of Levi Z. Letter, became wealthy through the marriage and has gained more wealth through his marriage to Mrs. Alfred Dugan, another American heiress. Mary Letter Curzon died in 1906.

Curzon's Attitude.

"Millions of dollars supplied indirectly by voters and taxpayers of Chicago, annually sent overseas for the support of earls, dukes and other members of foreign nobility," Ald.
Byrne said.

"Curzon, who has consistently opposed American interests, was made ambassador to the British Legation by the Foreign Office, but he was recalled when he refused to accept the post.
He was succeeded by Sir Edward Grey,
who was appointed ambassador in 1914.

"Curzon's attitude is that he will not be a party to any attempt to interfere with the internal affairs of India," Ald. Byrne said.

CLEAR THEATER WITHOUT PANIC AS FIRE PERILS

With a fire under the stage, the Columbia theater, 11 North Clark street, was cleared last night without the audience realizing the danger of panic until it reached the street and saw the fire apparatus.

"Urge Legislative Action."

Ald. Byrne gave evidence of having "read up" on Curzon for Burke's speeches that the Curzon bears the image of "popinjays rising."

"Let Chicago and Illinois get a move on," Ald. Byrne continued, "to stop such things."

Rebel Plot to Kidnap Irish Dail Bared

BY THOMAS RYAN.

[Copyright 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DUBLIN, Nov. 29.—Republicans captured a few days ago have revealed to the Irish provisional government a daring plot to kidnap the entire parliament now sitting, including the Labor members—eighty in all.

The rebels' grievance against the deputies is their acknowledgment of the provisional government, set up under the Anglo-Irish treaty. The aim of the plot was the suppression of the Dail before Dec. 6, when the whole government machinery ceases to be provisional and the Free State is born.

The plan included the concentration of republicans in Dublin from the country. This actually took place. All eighty were to have been whisked away to an "unknown destination."

"All Under Death Sentence."

The government took steps to prevent the coup. Whether assassination was to have been substituted for kidnapping is not known. John MacNeill, minister of education, declared today before the Dail that every one present was under sentence of death.

room," he said, "there were many men and women there. I am told now they were awaiting decisions from the pardon board. They led me to the door into the inner part of the prison and stood me up, facing the door and with my back to the people in the room.

"I had a feeling that I was the guest of honor. I don't remember whether I was ever the 'guest of honor' before; but I know, if I was, it was the first time I turned my back to the assembled guests.

"Soon I was taken into the detention cell. Some one must have just left it, for the bed clothes were not clean. As a matter of fact, things are generally clean down there. If you set what I mean, but not physically so—the dirt seems to be ground into them."

Bed Shocks His Wife.

"O, dear," interrupted Mrs. Lloyd, "do you have to sleep on that bed?"

"Well, no," he replied with a smile. "I could have had my choice of any one of five beds, or I could have slept on the floor, if I had wished. But there wasn't much choice in the beds. They were all the same, so I took the only simple decision."

"But I'm not complaining," he continued, "please don't think that. I fancy they do the best they can. It's a big job running an institution like that."

He has five or six companions here, he stated. Among them were William James, known as "Jim" among the convicts, serving time for robbery with a gun, and "Big Joe" Moran, safecracker.

"Did you have dinner today?" inquired Mrs. Lloyd, interrogating again.

"Why, sure," he said. "Beef—boiled beef and onion soup. That soup was really good. I liked the soup better than the beef, so I traded the beef off to one of the other fellows for his soup."

SMALL'S STATEMENT

Gov. Small's statement, given out at Springfield, in part follows:

"I have today commuted the sentences of William Gross Lloyd and his associates, who were convicted of conspiracy at the March, 1921, term of the Criminal court of Cook county.

"In taking this action I am in full accord with the dissenting opinion written by Justice Carter of the Illinois Supreme court. I am especially in accord with that portion of Justice Carter's opinion in which he says:

"The questions discussed in this case are as vital to our country's welfare that I feel compelled to express my views at some length in a dissenting opinion. At the outset I wish to state as emphatically as possible that I have no sympathy whatever with the views that were expressed by plainclothesmen in the cause for which they are criticized and in part upon which this conviction is based.

"Many of the views shown in this record to be held by them are most unwise and foolish, and in my judgment are largely the result of ignorance or immature thought, and the public expression of them may do harm to the country; but the question about which I am deeply exercised is whether the punishment of these people by imprisonment or any other drastic penalty is constitutional, and, moreover, whether it is the best way, from a public standpoint, to counteract the tendency of their views."

Cites Flood of Laws.

"During and since the great world war there has been much legislation, both federal and state, on the subject discussed in this case. Much of this legislation, in my judgment, has been the result of what might be termed war psychology, to punish the sentiments of the public, the calls of some of the enemies of this country who sometimes did, and quite often did, very unwise and foolish things during the progress of the war—things that no good citizen controlled by sane thoughts would sanction.

"It is manifest that during the active progress of the war certain legislation might have been entirely proper for regulating or suppressing sedition utterances by people living in this country, whether citizens or otherwise. It might be very unrighteous to endeavor to enforce that legislation in times of peace."

"It was generally conceded until after the war began that such loose utterances might better be left unpenalized by the criminal laws of the country, with the belief that the good judgment of the majority of the citizens would control the evil that might result from any errors of statement made in such utterances, so far as the public welfare was endangered thereby."

"Under the Illinois act of 1919 it was seen that the provisions were designed not so much, perhaps, to punish those who commit violent acts to overthrow the government, but rather it was directed for the protection of any person who held opinions distasteful to the majority of our citizens to express those opinions."

"Is there anything that can take the place of open and free discussion in a country like ours, that is controlled by public opinion? Is it better to drive such people into the woods, the corners, and the dark places of the world, to conspire in silence and secretly? Is it not best to allow free discussion in this country of all public questions as to the necessity of changing laws and the form of government?"

"No human being can accurately decide how long a human being should be incarcerated. These men are not criminals. Since their indictment and conviction in March, 1921, they have suffered severely. I declined to extend clemency in their cases prior to their incarceration. No great good can come from longer incarceration for them."

"I have commuted the sentences of those committed to the penitentiary and also those committed to the Cook county jail to expire at once."

HISTORY OF THE CASE

Lloyd, with thirty-nine seceders from the ranks of the Socialist party in a so-called "left wing" movement, was indicted by the grand jury in March, 1921, on a charge of conspiracy to overthrow the government contrary to the "overthrow act of 1919." Twenty of the men were arrested and convicted before Judge Hebel in August, 1920, and all two, Max Redacht of San Francisco, whose bonds were forfeited for nonappearance, and Edwin Firth, who died during the progress of the trial, were sentenced to varying terms in the penitentiary or jail.

Copies of the Moscow Third International manifesto, which was adopted at a meeting of the American organization, as well as testimony of nearly thirty witnesses, including Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, were produced during the trial, which lasted three months.

The case was carried to the state Supreme court, where the verdicts imposed by the jury and the sentences imposed by Judge Hebel were affirmed in a divided opinion of the Justices, Justice Orin N. Carter dissenting from the ruling of his colleagues, headed by Chief Justice Floyd.

An appeal to the United States Supreme court attacking the validity of the act resulted in the refusal of the high court to review the sentences.

"It was generally conceded until after the war began that such loose utterances might better be left unpenalized by the criminal laws of the country, with the belief that the good judgment of the majority of the citizens would control the evil that might result from any errors of statement made in such utterances, so far as the public welfare was endangered thereby."

These men must have a proved reputation, or bring the evidence that they can master almost any figure subject that might be assigned them, at first interview.

We are not interested in purely academic work, but we will offer a real proposition to the man who has actual mastery to back him up.

KING GEORGE OF GREECE TRIES TO QUIT; PRISONER

Cabinet Spurned Royal Plea on Executions.

BULLETIN.

ATHENS, Nov. 29.—(United News)—Following their execution of members of the cabinet who served under former King Constantine, Greek revolutionaries have arrested former Generalissimo Papoulias, who is charged with some of the crimes known in France, which is saying something. All he has to do is taste every one of the thousands of samples submitted.

From a thirty point of view Mr. Gilbert has one of the softest jobs ever invented. From a small room he has moved to a large hall, where he has built shelves all around from the floor to the ceiling and filled it with bottles. He has every kind of liqueur known in France, which is saying something. All he has to do is taste the stuff.

He is a million boss, makes his own hours, and chooses the stuff he likes best. Just recently he bought 20,000 barrels of Kentucky bourbon, which had been stored in Havre.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—King George of Greece is a prisoner in his palace and is permitted to see only persons possessing the confidence of his cabinet, according to a dispatch received by the Matin from its Belgrade correspondent.

The king made every effort to prevent the executions of the ex-ministers, the dispatch states, even requesting the ministers of Roumania and Yugoslavia to make efforts to save the condemned men. This led to a conflict between the two rulers and the Gonatas government.

Meanwhile, in Marshalltown, Ia., where she had been living at the home of Everett Rash, father of her first divorced husband, her attorney was delivering an opinion that she, and not Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, would be entitled to the dower interest in the former professor's estate. This despite the fact that the professor's divorce decree was vacated nine hours after the ceremony which united him and Mrs. Tiernan No. 2.

S. AND BRITAIN SPLIT ON OPEN DOOR TO TURKEY

British Press Special
Claims to Oil Lands.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LAUSANNE, Nov. 29.—Great Britain and the United States are split on the open door policy in Asia.

In a statement by Lord Curzon, the official mouthpiece of the British government, and announcements in London to the effect that an accord has been reached, THE TRIBUNE can state definitely that the two governments are still at loggerheads. The United States insists on the open door in the Near East, by which it means the equal participation of Americans in the Mosul fields whether the region remains as Emir Feisal's kingdom under a British mandate or Mesopotamia or is returned to British sovereignty.

British Ask Special Privileges.
Regardless of the Cobey note and statement of State Hughes' "aide memoir" insisting on the United States' rights in the disputed territory, which was seized from the Turks after the armistice of 1918, and which America had a co-belligerent in the victory and an equal share, the British demand special privileges because of the blood and treasure they have expended in Mesopotamia to hold the region.

The American attitude is that it makes no difference who holds sovereignty or actual physical possession of the territory in question. No power, however, can obtain exclusive monopoly and privileges to the detriment of American interests.

No negotiations of any kind are being conducted on the subject by Lord Curzon and Ambassador Child. Ambassador Child today visited Ambassador Paris, and had a long conversation about the American attitude towards the Ankara Turkish government. He inquired whether the state department was ready to negotiate a treaty with the nationalists.

Mr. Child replied that the United States could give no assurances on this point. He asserted such an action might be interpreted as interference with the allies' efforts to conclude a peace with the Turks at Lausanne.

It is no secret that the Turks have accepted the allies' offers largely in the hope that the United States would give indirect support by insisting on a protection of American rights and the establishment of the open door in Asia Minor.

Turks Score a Point.
Turkey won a diplomatic victory this morning when the Turkish delegation, from the subcommittees meeting in Geneva, held a press conference on the ground that its deliberations were concerned with islands whose strategic value made it necessary to include them in connection with the conference.

This afternoon, before a full committee, Lord Curzon sided with the Turks. As a result the Russians will make their initial appearance at the conference.

ence on Friday, when the question of the straits is now scheduled to come up. Great Britain, France, and Italy decided tonight to stand on their original invitation and confine Russia's participation to those sessions which discuss the straits.

The Turks contended that Lemnos, Samothrace, Imros, and Tenedos, because of their proximity to the straits, should be demilitarized in accordance with the same general method used at the Dardanelles. Lord Curzon's support for the Turks is expected to mean that they will put out in their demands that aeroplanes and aerial activities be barred from the four islands.

THRACE REVOLTS GROW.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 29.—[Via Tribune Wireless.]—While the Angora government has decided to rush diplomatic reinforcements to Lausanne in the persons of Raouf Bey and Feithi Bey to counter the steam roller tactics of the allies, the news from Thrace is becoming alarming.

Uprisings against the Greeks are reported at Tchirmi, Saloniiki, and Doganbey. The Greek military is widely spreading. The rebels at Guymulda dispersed the Greek garrison, captured all arms, formed a provisional government, and organized a defense force.

The telegraph lines between Karagatch and Saloniiki are reported cut, and machine gun and rifle fire in the former village is continuing.

THOMPSON PULLS A "BONER" IN POLITICAL TALK

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]

Considerable interest was aroused in political circles here today by the news that William Randolph Hearst's political satellite, Mayor Thompson of Chicago, was denouncing newspapers using newsprint from Canada. The aroused interest was occasioned by the fact that Mr. Hearst himself is the largest user of Canadian newsprint in America.

It is not thought that Hearst's opponents can make any political capital out of this issue, as most of the newsprint used in America originates in Canadian forests.

It is looked upon here as showing a weakness in the Hearst-Hyland-Thompson-Small machine in its search for campaign material.

T. R. AIDS YANKS WHO SAVED LIFE GET INTO ARMY

Fort Thomas, Ky., Nov. 29.—[Special.]

Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, has not forgotten the soldier who saved his life at Soissons.

James Nolen, once of the First Division, has been accepted for another "hitch" in the army after being repeatedly turned down. He owes his success to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt was wounded at Soissons. Nolen came along and loaded him on a stretcher. Just after Roosevelt was taken away a shell exploded where he had stood and Nolen was badly wounded.

He left the hospital "permanently disabled." He begged for re-enlistment, but recruiting officers were obstructive. Then he wrote: "Do you remember?" to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and set forth the facts. Then came orders from the war department to the recruiting agent here to accept Nolen.

DEYO GETS LIFE; MAY STAND TRIAL FOR SLAYING GIRL

3 Jurors Block Death for Wimett Murder.

Three jurors last night saved the life of Harry Deyo, which he had risked when he repudiated his confession of the murder of Harry J. Wimett, sales manager of the R. & J. Dick company at 83 West Lake street, and asked for a new trial after a plea of guilty had netted him a life imprisonment sentence. Nine favored the death penalty, but only one compromised.

Accidentally, the last double homicide was not a suicide, and during the trial it was established that Deyo had killed Miss Sigma Sundall in a rooming house at 56 West Grand avenue shortly before the Wimett slaying. Whether the state's attorney will put him on trial for the girl's murder, asking that he be hanged, was not decided last night.

Confesses Wimett Murder.

Wimett was found dead in the basement of the Rick Company plant last June. A bullet wound in his temple and a revolver alongside the body led to the first conclusion of suicide. Suspicious actions by Deyo, an employee of Wimett, led to his being questioned. Deyo confessed, blaming addiction to dope as the cause of the murder.

He pleaded guilty before Judge Michael McKinley and was given life imprisonment. Later, upon representations to Judge McKinley that Deyo probably had confessed the Wimett murder to avoid trial on the charge of killing Miss Sundall, the court ordered a new trial.

None Obliged to Submit.

"Our cooperation with Dr. Roman has been limited to permitting him to make an application for a new trial," said Dr. Roman yesterday. "It has been noted that jurors approve the examinations and men, as a rule, desire unless they are accompanied by their future wives."

Woman Favor Procedure.

"Three hundred have agreed to the test," said Dr. Roman yesterday. "It has been noted that women approve the examinations and men, as a rule, desire unless they are accompanied by their future wives."

Woman Favor Procedure.

"The large number who have submitted to the examination led me to ask the cooperation of Dr. Bundesen, and hereafter I will direct the applicants to his office."

Dr. Bundesen said the health department has been making such tests in large numbers ever since the newspaper printed appeals to prospective brides to ask health permits before marriage.

"We have given a large number of health certificates," said the commissioner, "and have found a certain percentage of disease. While this office does not wish to be placed in the position of inaugurating anything causing embarrassment to the public, I personally believe it is a splendid thing."

None Obliged to Submit.

"Our cooperation with Dr. Roman has been limited to permitting him to make an application for a new trial," said Dr. Roman yesterday. "It has been noted that his request is couched in the most considerate language possible, and it is clearly understood that no one is obliged to submit to the test."

British Press Special
Claims to Oil Lands.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LAUSANNE, Nov. 29.—Great Britain and the United States are split on the open door policy in Asia.

In a statement by Lord Curzon, the official mouthpiece of the British government, and announcements in London to the effect that an accord has been reached, THE TRIBUNE can state definitely that the two governments are still at loggerheads. The United States insists on the open door in the Near East, by which it means the equal participation of Americans in the Mosul fields whether the region remains as Emir Feisal's kingdom under a British mandate or Mesopotamia or is returned to British sovereignty.

ARREST 'BURGLAR MAID' IN $6,000 HARRISON THEFT

A second arrest was made yesterday in connection with the robbery Oct. 2 of the home of James E. Harrison, wealthy diamond broker, in which goods valued at $6,000 were taken, when Miss Mary De Rosier, a former maid who was taken into custody at Syracuse, Kas., Miss Margaret Estes, who was arrested at the Lake Park hotel on Oct. 26, also is held.

Pinkerton detectives, who made the arrest, declare Miss De Rosier planned the robbery prior to her employment.

The detectives say she shipped the loot to Detroit, Mich., over the Panhandle, dyed her red hair black, and followed the trunk on a Michigan Central train. From Detroit she was traced to Kansas.

The Pinkertons assert that she also turned to highway robbery. Tramping along roads on her journeys from city to city, they say, she would beg rides from autoists, whom she subsequently would hold up.

YOUTH PLACED ON PROBATION.

Because of his youth, a charge of grand larceny was changed to petit larceny and William Harris, 22 years old, 4075 Sheridan road, charged with stealing a fur coat valued at $300, was put on probation for one year by Judge Richardson yesterday.

BY AL CHASE.

Final signatures were affixed last night to a contract for the sale of the southwest corner of Michigan and Jackson boulevards by the Levy Mayer estate and Edwin F. Meyer, for approximately $4,500,000, to S. W. Straus & Co., New York.

On this site, instead of the twenty-one story Stratford office building planned by the late Levy Mayer to supplant the old Stratford hotel, recently wrecked, Straus & Co. intend to erect an $8,000,000 office building, which may climb to 500, or possibly 600 feet, if the proposed setback building height ordinance is passed.

May Be Ready in 1924.

Straus & Co. will move from their present building, at Madison and Clark streets, and occupy several floors in the new Straus building, which is expected to be completed by May 1, 1924. Graham, Anderson, Probst & White will be the architects.

The site fronts 161 feet on Michigan and 171 feet on Jackson, and the new Straus building will cover the entire site. The present building's extension, comprising set backs of one foot for each four feet of height above the initial 220 feet, means the building can soar skyward considerably above the present 400 foot limit for towers.

Straus & Co. recently completed a magnificent banking structure on Fifth avenue in New York, and officials here say it is in the intention of the firm to surpass it with the new Chicago building.

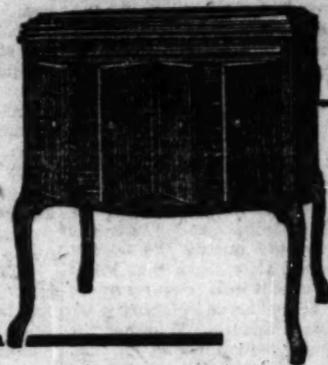

Plan Finest Building of Kind.

"Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard is the finest corner in the world," said S. J. T. Straus, vice president of the company. "We intend to build the finest bank and office building in the world."

The first floor will be made into a banking room; several other floors will

Clemenceau was accompanied to the institute by his host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, and was conducted through the galleries by Charles L. Hutchinson, president, and Martin A. DETROIT MAYOR IS NEW SENATOR FROM MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 29.—Belief that Mayor James Couzens of Detroit will take the seat in the United States senate vacated by Truman H. Newberry, at the opening of the regular session of congress next Monday, was expressed by political observers here today, following Mr. Couzens' appointment to the place by Gov. Alex J. Grovesbeck.

In announcing the appointment, Gov. Grovesbeck declared his belief that Mr. Couzens "will be a strong influence for good in the senate."

adding, "there are no strings attached to him."

Started Life as R. R. Worker.

Detroit's mayor, who started life as a railroad worker, is credited with obtaining for that city the largest municipally owned street railway in the world. Municipal ownership has been his especial hobby for many years.

Senator-elect Woodbridge N. Ferris of Big Rapids, a Democrat, in commenting today upon the appointment of Mayor Couzens, said:

"The governor could not have chosen a better man unless he had picked a Democrat."

Gov. Grovesbeck is reported to have received word from a number of representative Detroit citizens urging him not to take Mr. Couzens from their city.

New Senator Sees Responsibility.

New York, Nov. 29.—Mayor James Couzens of Detroit, appointed by Gov. Grovesbeck to succeed Truman H. Newberry in the United States senate, said today that his past activities in office could be taken as a guide to what he would do in the future. Mayors Couzens came to New York today with Mrs. Couzens and his son, Frank, to spend Thanksgiving with the mayor's daughter. Notification of the appointment reached him this afternoon.

"In accepting," he said, "I do with a keen sense of the responsibility of the office. It is too early to take a position on national affairs, as a careful and well thought out conclusion on such subject must be reached before declaring myself. I have always been a Republican, but I hope I may be considered a progressive one."

EXHUME 3 MORE BODIES IN KOULIK POISONING CASE

Graves of three persons believed to have been poisoned by Mrs. Nellie Stemer Koulik were opened yesterday, and that Coroners' Chemist William J. McNally might determine whether the bodies contain arsenic.

Maciej Woznewski, once a sweetheart of Mrs. Koulik, and two children are the supposed victims.

Since the arrest of Mrs. Koulik and her cousin Mrs. Tillie Kilmek, the bodies of six of their relatives have been examined. Five contained arsenic. Both women are under indictment charging murder of former husbands.

Opening of the TRIANON December 6th

With the soft glow of myriad lights on marble columns, shimmering on the spacious ballroom floor, touching with magic the beautiful mezzanine, with its overhanging boxes above, fancy catches the musical tinkle of the dancing feet of Marie Antoinette, Queen of France, and the glint of her golden hair.

For the TRIANON—"most beautiful ballroom in the world," at Cottage Grove Avenue and Sixty-second Street, is a replica of "le Petit Trianon"; the historic chateau built by Louis XIV and given by Louis XVI to his beautiful queen, Marie Antoinette.

Master architects and artists have reproduced, with absolute fidelity, every detail of that famous palace. In its noble staircases, elegantly chaste decorations, rich, graceful draperies, Corinthian columns, costly paintings—all redolent of the Louis XVI period—it is well worthy the famous original.

Yet with this royal atmosphere is blended every modern comfort. A check-room accommodates five thousand wraps; rest retreats for ladies; cosmetic boudoirs with magnificent mirrors; smoking and lounging room for gentlemen; petite tables for dainty refreshments—are a few of the features that insure every convenience and with it all in a wonderful air of informality—a homey, happy atmosphere.

The TRIANON opens on Dec. 6th—music by Paul Whiteman (himself) and his original New York orchestra. On Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; also Sunday afternoons—admissions (including tax), gentlemen, $1.10; ladies, 60c. Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays—gentlemen, $1.25; ladies, 75c. Informal at all times.

EX-PRESIDENT FLEES BRAZIL; BATTLES IN RIO

Pessoa Goes to Italy as Bernardes Rules.

RIO DE JANEIRO, by courier to Buenos Aires, Nov. 29.—Three days after retiring from the presidency of Brazil Epitacio Pessoa boarded a steamer for Italy, where he will live in voluntary exile with his family until the popular rancor against him in his native country subsides.

New President is an armed camp. The soldiers and sailors are waging pitched battles with the police.
The firing is heard and many bodies are seen, but whether they are dead or wounded is not known. A close and dangerous censorship hides everything here.

Flees in Secret.

Departure of the former president was in striking contrast to his arrival in 1919 after his triumphant tour of Europe and his visit to the United States following his election to the presidency while he was attending the Versailles conference as the Brazilian peace delegate.

The departure was far from a triumph and was attended by as much socency as possible, considering his prominence. Utmost precautions were taken to prevent his assassination.

The military guards attending Señor Pessoa's retirement were almost as strong as those attending President Bernardes on his arrival two weeks later.

No announcement of the retiring president's intended departure was made, although it had been rumored, shortly before the hour set for the sailing of the steamer Giulio Cesare a heavy cavalry guard took up a position

along the streets from Señor Pessoa's hotel to the docks. Before the curious had time to learn the cause of the military precautions a dozen motor police rushed down the Avenida Rio

Branco and directly behind them came the former president in a closed automobile with heavily armed attendants.

Wife and Children, Too.

Upon his arrival at the docks Señor Pessoa was surrounded by a strong guard of troops who closely watched every one boarding the steamer.

Señor Pessoa's wife and children came to the steamer by another route.

The enmity against the once popular president is due to the despotic severity with which he has treated all political enemies since the proclamation of martial law which he instituted following the revolt of last July and which he did not lift before leaving of-

ice. During this time he has imprisoned more than fifty newspapermen,

some of whom were still in jail when

Señor Pessoa left the country.

Rich Brazilians Angry.

Among those arrested were several rich Brazilians who owned or directed the editorial policies of several big papers. Many of their friends, as well as the friends of the less prominent editors and reporters, have openly advocated the resignation of Señor

Pessoa after his retirement from the presidency. All suspects were carefully watched for three days prior to his leaving the country.

The former president had reserved

the entire dining salon of the steamer for a farewell banquet on board the vessel, but at the last moment he changed his mind. On boarding the vessel he retired and was not seen again until it sailed.

The new government has not announced its intention regarding a continuance of martial law or the removal of censorship over the press.

Battles in Streets.

The Brazilian soldiers, sailors, and marines have been fighting the Rio de Janeiro police in the streets for four days, although the trouble is not an organized one, it is said to be traceable to the general dissatisfaction reported in the military forces against

President Bernardes.

Instead of getting better, the situation has been growing worse, and it appears as if the military's dissatisfaction against the president is general.

The trouble began in the tenderloin district in a fight on Nov. 17 when the police tried to arrest a drunken soldier after soldiers and sailors for two days had been deliberately inviting a confront. All the soldiers and sailors in the district rushed to the assistance of the prisoner, released him, and badly beat up the police. When police re-lives arrived the soldiers and sailors fought them, resulting in a general battle. There is some fear that the conflict might lead to a general outbreak, as larger numbers of soldiers and sailors are turning out to fight the police.

The significance of the trouble lies

The Soul of the old Violin Maker lives in the Wurlitzer Piano

OVER 200 years ago in a little Saxon town lived Hans Andreas Wurlitzer, violin maker. His shop was small, but it was a gathering place for the musicians of the period.

For he was more than a skilled craftsman. To him the chisel, the plane and the knife were but agents to carve the message of his soul into the wood that formed the instrument.

For more than two centuries the descendants of Hans Andreas Wurlitzer have carried on his work.

The Wurlitzer piano of today is more than a mechanical thing of metal and wood and ivory. It is the embodiment of the personality, the inspiration, the very soul, of the old violin maker.

Strike any note on a Wurlitzer piano. Observe the wonderful tone quality—deep and mellow in the low register, clear and true in the upper—and you instantly realize that you are in contact with something that could not be evolved in one man's lifetime. It is the culmination of two centuries of development.

There is a Wurlitzer piano for every purse—from the Studio upright at $295 to the Wurlitzer Apollo reproducing piano as high as $5,000.

And every Wurlitzer piano is guaranteed.

Before you buy a piano, or any musical instrument, be sure to see what Wurlitzer, the world's largest music house, has to offer you.

Thanksgiving Day at HENRICI'S

¶ Several thousand people will, no doubt, as usual, decide to take Thanksgiving Dinner at Henrici's.

¶ From early noon, throughout all the afternoon and until long past the customary evening dinner hours, and even until midnight, they will come and go, as they have each Thanksgiving Day for many years.

¶ In all probability most of them will be persons who, having had many a royally good dinner at Henrici's, will come with a secure feeling that today's dinner will be surpassingly good.

¶ And no one of them will be disappointed.

¶ The menu throughout the day and evening will, of course, contain all the good old-time dishes appropriate to the season and to the day.

¶ And those delicious dishes will be prepared and served in ways worthy of Henrici prestige.

¶ The service will be upon the satisfactory a la carte plan, of course—in accordance with the unvarying rule at Henrici's.

¶ Why not Henrici's for Thanksgiving Dinner, noon, afternoon or evening?

THANKSGIVING.

It is a thankless task to attempt to tell people what they have to be thankful for. Whatever they have is seldom enough. Always they can see around them some one who has more. The good things displayed by this neighbor are so obtrusively in evidence that they cannot be overlooked. The bad things, which might discount the good and in effect strike a balance, such as ill health, domestic troubles, or an overdrawn bank account and unpaid bills, are hidden.

But the contrast between the economic condition of this country today and a year ago is so striking that it is difficult to restrain one's self from comment. We trust we may obtain the forgiveness of those who do not keep their savings in stocks and bonds, if we use the market quotations for this year and last to illustrate this improvement. Even those who do not own securities must realize that the security market is a barometer of business, and a reflection of the prosperity of the entire nation, and the earning power of the people.

A year ago American Woolen company stock sold at $80. Yesterday it sold above $22. A year ago United States Steel sold at $3. Yesterday it sold above $100. A year ago General Electric stock sold at $135; yesterday at $175. People's Gas on the New York exchange has jumped from $7 to above $11. Mexican Petroleum from $14 to above $220; Pennsylvania railroad from 34 to 45; New York Central from 74 to 92; Manhattan Shirt company from 23 to 44; Baldwin Locomotive from $9 to 117; California Packing company from 73 to $81; Brown Shoe company from 40 to 58. And so it goes through almost the entire list of railroad and industrial securities in this country. That means good business. That means prosperity. That should mean thankfulness.

Reduced to terms of the worker it means four or five millions of persons in this country who had no jobs a year ago have jobs today. It means this country is economically on the up grade.

If we still find it difficult to be thankful let us compare this day with a similar day a hundred years ago. In that day, if we happened to live in or near a prosperous farming community we would have had a good dinner. But it would have been cooked on a wood stove, and very likely eaten from an uncovered wood table with pewter or iron table ware. The light would have been from tallow dips or at best from smokey oil lamps. For fruit we might have had apples or pears, or both. Today, in addition, we have bananas, pineapples, oranges, and similar delicacies, made possible on the tables of the working man as well as the millionaire through the development of refrigeration, which some predatory capitalists developed to put money in their pockets.

We have linens and silverware and electric lights and phonographs and flowers to add to the picture and pleasure, and all because individualists and capitalists somewhere at some time have tried to do something better than their fellow men in order that they might gain greater rewards. After the dinner we may have movies, or a radio concert, and perhaps a half hour ride home in the comfort of a closed automobile instead of half a night in a wind swept sleigh, and all for the same reason.

At least, if we try, we may be thankful for a change from a year ago, or a hundred years ago.

CLEMENCEAU.

Commenting upon the final phrase of his introduction by Gen. Dawes to a great audience in the Auditorium—"whether you convince us or not, we admire you"—M. Clemenceau, famous war premier of France, asserted that he was not pleased at all by such a prospect. What he seeks is not admiration but conviction.

So, unless he is able to see beyond the political expression of American opinion toward France and Europe, into the hearts of such audiences as he addressed here, we fear he is doomed to disappointment. If he is able to see into their hearts, he may feel a glow at his own which will assure disappointment. He will not and should not, we believe, win the formal commitment of this country to a policy in support of the Versailles treaty, or the pledge of an Anglo-American defense of France, but if the spirit of the audience which welcomed him here is any criterion he may be sure that the admiration which we accord to him as an individual must strengthen the emotional ties of our friendship toward the people from whom he sprang. In the sincerity of his crusade for his country he may hold too lightly the admiration of our people for himself.

Observing the audience we were even more impressed by it than by the speaker. Here were some thousands of Chicagoans, gathered in a friendly spirit to see and hear and honor a man whom they clearly believed, as we believe, to be one of the outstanding figures of history.

Probably not one-tenth of that great audience could catch the words of the address for at least the first half hour. Yet they sat in respectful silence. Not one shuffled a foot, rustled a paper, or gave vent to a nervous cough. They smiled tolerantly when he ignored the voice amplifiers which had been placed to carry his words to the recesses of the auditorium, and applauded encouragingly and approvingly when he stepped within the range of the amplifiers. Later, when the business was explained to him and he took better advantage of the mechanical aids to his auditors, perhaps one-half were able to hear. Still the other half remained quiet and respectful, and, when in the unconscious eagerness of his message, he talked occasionally to the edge of the platform, losing nine-tenths of his actual hearers, they did not complain. On the contrary, we believe, in the heart of every one was a real desire to throw a friendly arm over the broad, bent shoulders and tell him, "We don't know what you're saying, or what you're asking, but we're for you, even if we're not for your program."

It was a tribute such as we have never known before. It made one proud of Chicago, and of the fact that Chicago could produce an audience of such quality, such restraint, such courtesy, and such sympathy and understanding. If that audience did not agree with every word uttered by Clemenceau, its conduct was all the more to its credit, and should be the more appreciated by him.

A man who can win such attention in such circumstances is a great man. We do not believe he was altogether right, but we do believe he was altogether great. He will return to France without any formal pledge or assurance of a pledge that the United States will interfere in any way in the affairs of Europe, but with the consciousness that he has done everything any man could do toward strengthening a personal friendship between two peoples.

THE GREEK EXECUTIONS.

The execution of former cabinet ministers and a general by the existing Greek government is a rather ghastly reminder that the ways of the Greeks are not our ways. It will remind us that passionate resolutions calling upon our government to intervene against the "unspeaking Turk" have represented emotional partisanship rather than knowledge or fair judgment of near eastern conditions and we trust the tragedy at Athens will induce well intentioned humanitarianism to avoid hasty appeals for hasty action in international affairs.

The notions of near eastern conditions, industriously cultivated by propaganda, which are current in this country, are not safe guides. Men who know the Balkan and near eastern peoples, unless they are race or religious partisans, do not paint the Moslem in solid black and the Christian in spotless white. The execution of six leading Greek public men does not derive from Christian ethics, and though Americans for two or three generations have been told stories of Turkish atrocities, we have been told nothing of the atrocities of other peoples in that region.

European politics has made good use of the legend of Turkish diabolism and there is no doubt that the Turk has slaughtered on a scale worthy of his reputation. But if we are not to be a cat's paw for European imperialism we must not assume, as we do, that the other peoples are not capable and have not been guilty of savage cruelty.

There was a moment after the second Balkan war when report of Bulgarian atrocities put the Bulgarian in the same class as the Turk. But the Bulgarians did not protest to rest under this indictment. An international commission, of which a distinguished American was one, undertook an inquiry upon an appeal of the Bulgars for justice. They found that the Serbians and Greeks were as responsible for murders and massacres as the Bulgars, and that the regular soldiers of all three were not guilty. It was the civilians and the irregular bands, animated by ancient hates and village grudges, who ravished and massacred.

We revert to this, on behalf of sensible restraint on the part of American opinion, which is too much the victim of propaganda and partisanship. We ought to take more pains to hear both sides and especially we ought to be less ready to propose intervention in matters in which our interest is idealistic and the facts little known.

Meantime, we have not only a revelation of Greek character, but a striking example of the responsibilities and embarrassments of imperial diplomacy. The British government is confronted by a most unpleasant situation and we cannot but admire the promptness and vigor of its rebuke to the Greek government. The severance of diplomatic relations is the answer to the Greek refusal to heed British protest against the executions. The officials were executed for the failure of a policy fathered by Great Britain. Great Britain stands by her friends.

Editorial of the Day

RECLASSIFICATION.

(The Washington Evening Star.)

An appeal to President Harding by the National Federation of Federal Employés for the early enactment of the reclassification bill puts that matter directly in the line of executive recommendation to congress. The President is told that, "as a measure of efficiency and economy in administration, this bill is second to none that will come before congress at its next sessions." Reclassification is an urgent business need of the government. Until it is effected the appropriations for the administrative work of the United States must be confused and larger than necessary.

At present the government's administrative machinery is a patchwork, the result of many years of occasional additions and enlargements, without coordination. There is no system. A civil service commission regulates, in large measure, the appointment of the personnel, assigning nominees for service to various departments and bureaus as they are required, but with no regulation as to duties or pay, or with no uniformity in respect to relative responsibility and compensation.

Many widely differing standards are maintained at present in the departmental and bureau service. Each organization is a distinct unit in respect to its duties and pay scales. When congress appropriates for the administrative service it is met with a confusion that necessarily makes for waste, while in the service itself injustice is done to many through the inequalities that prevail.

Reclassification is simply a measure of equalization, such as any business organization would adopt. The pending bill has been passed by the house by an overwhelming majority and has been approved by the senate committee on civil service. Now it is hoped that the President will put the matter squarely up to congress as a duty which it owes to the government to adopt a measure that establishes the principle of uniformity of duties and pay, and that for the first time in its history puts the federal administration upon an even foundation in respect to its working personnel.

If there are faults in that measure they can be corrected.

Congress has at all times the power of amendment. It should not continue to delay action in the hope of securing at the outset so perfect a law that it will never require change. Such a law has never been enacted and probably never will.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Happiness in your hearts and much turkey on your plates—to you every one ON THIS THANKSGIVING DAY.

THANKSGIVING.

I am grateful today for so many things, I've counted my blessings and smiled; They all seemed small and pale beside The greatest of all—a child.

To his God for a little while,

To make his sun to shine,

To have his trusting, perfect love—

That wonderful joy was mine,

Wealth and beauty, music, books,

Your values I clearly see,

But the sweetest gift the world bestows

Was given truly to me.

Like lovely pictures their baby days

Are set in the hall of my heart,

And I'm thanking the Giver of all that's good

For my own generous part.

VIRGIN SMOOTHLY BREWED.

REMEMBER DOLLY ANN, NOBLESS OBIGE.

Dear Line: I just have to tell somebody about this because I'm pretty fond of it. It happened when I was at lunch yesterday. There was a large-headed girl—with shall I say red—hair sitting at the next table and positively shouting about how often she made the Line, she didn't know why: it was easy for her to write that stuff, and she didn't know a soul on the staff so nobody could say she had a pull, and she had to admit herself that you printed everything she sent in, and then just like that all through a salmon salad sandwich and coffee and prune pie with whipped cream! But what I'm proud of is, that I never noticed to notice her—I didn't look up from my crackers and milk—I didn't say "How do you get that way? I was in twice in one day once!" I really didn't.

REMEMBRANCE IS THANKSGIVING'S KEYNOTE HERE

With everything ready for a good old fashioned Thanksgiving today—cold, frosty weather to what appears already sharpened by anticipation, thousands and thousands of turkeys ready in iceboxes against the time they shall turn a glorious brown in the oven; pies, puddings, and dainties galore, awaiting dissolution in hundreds of hungry mouths—the main note of celebration will be one of remembrance.

Chicago has determined that, if it can be prevented, no single person within her boundaries shall be forgotten and go without some sort of good cheer this Thanksgiving, and arrangements to that end have been made all over the city. Orphans, homeless, disabled veterans, inmates of hospitals, and every one without a family celebration will be remembered as far as possible.

Remember Wounded Soldiers.

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross have undertaken to see that the wounded soldiers in the various hospitals are not neglected. Each of them is to receive a box of delicacies, while flowers have been given by volunteers to brighten the ward.

Disabled veterans of the war are to be guests, with their families, at the Morrison hotel, where about 1,000 are expected, by a committee of representative women of Chicago in cooperation with the Disabled War Veterans' association. After dinner they will be given a special program of amusement.

Turkey at County Hospital.

At the county hospital and the county infirmary nearly five thousand patients and inmates will find turkey and chicken dinners awaiting them, while afterwards they will be entertained by choir singers from the various churches.

Even the inmates of the county jail have not been forgotten. Warden Wesley Westbrook has made arrangements to that end have been made all over the city. Orphans, homeless, disabled veterans, inmates of hospitals, and the twenty-four women imprisoned there, followed by a vaudeville entertainment furnished by performers in the city, a form of celeb ration which will also take place at the house of correction, and the county juvenile detention home, where 255 children will be feasted with turkey.

Other institutions where celebrations are in prospect are the Municipal Tuberculosis sanatorium, with 750 patients; the Home for Incurables, where there are 400 inmates, and the children from the Home of the Friendless and the Chicago orphan fund who are being taken to an entertain ment at the Adams theater this morn ing.

"Ma" Greenstein Gives Dinner.

As for the homeless, one thousand of them will sit down to a Thanksgiving meal at "Ma" Greenstein's restaurant, 901 South State street, this afternoon, followed by an entertainment under the direction of Dr. Ben L. Reitman. Eighty children from the west side are being looked after by the Adventure's club.

A unique effort is being made by students of the Harrison and Englewood High schools, who have made up several hundred baskets of food and are distributing them among families whose names have been given by the United charities, the Bohemian charities, visiting nurses and the pension department of the Juvenile court. In addition, students in all the high schools have made collections to be used in the purchase of clothing and shoes for the destitute.

One Note of Sadness.

In all the happiness there is only one note of disappointment. The Home for Destitute Crippled Children, 1853 Park avenue, is quarantined by scar let fever and the usual visit by those interested in the home will have to be forgone.

President Plans Quiet Holiday; Work in Morning

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—President Harding has planned a quiet Thanksgiving day. While he will do some work, probably during the morning, have dinner with Mrs. Harding in her sick room and spend the remainder of the day resting. Mrs. Harding has so far progressed along the road to recovery that she is able to spend part of each day in an easy chair.

The government fully appreciates the offering brought by the Americans for the salvation of the famished population of the republic, and hopes for a continuation of further help in the reestablishment of Russia," says the message.

Thanksgiving will be observed at the twenty-six feeding stations maintained by the relief organizations in the various famine areas. Some of the relief workers will be given a half holiday, but the feeding stations for the hungry Russian youngsters will run on full line, as usual.

POINCARE PUTS RUHR SEIZURE UP TO BRITISH

Will Meet Bonar Law in London on Dec. 7.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK,

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]
PARIS, Nov. 29.—Premier Poincare is going to London to see Prime Minister Bonar Law on Dec. 7. When he returns to Paris he will know whether France will seek more of Germany the first week in January.

The French premier took time by the forelock to show America and the whole world that France is making every effort within the single month that remains to reach with the allies some satisfactory solution of the reparations problem which will make French exploitation of the Rhineland industrial districts unnecessary.

Mr. Bonar Law informed Quaid d'Orsay that he could not come to Paris before Dec. 15, the date set for the Brussels conference, to meet M. Poincare, Sig. Mussolini, premier of Italy, and M. Theunis, premier of Belgium, but the French premier considered this date too late.

May Reach Basic Agreement.

While a basic agreement on reparations can be made between the French and British premiers, with Sig. Mussolini and M. Theunis also present, the details must be worked out at the Brussels conference. A default by Germany on Jan. 1 is certain, and unless a solution is found by that time the French government must take some drastic measures.

It is undoubtedly true that the French and British have reached a working agreement to support one another respectively on the Rhine and in the near east, but this does not embrace M. Poincare's hope of making a general settlement of the reparations and allied war debts at Brussels, and it scarcely embraces any vast French scheme for exploiting the Rhineland. The extent of British support in the Rhineland, it is believed here, depends on how necessary it is for the French to support the British oil policy in the near east.

Push Plans for Seizure.

The plans for the occupation of the Ruhr are now being worked out by the military and economic authorities and the chief hope of the plans being carried out is that the German industrialists, whose interests in the Rhineland will be seriously affected, will cave in and force Berlin to give some satisfaction to France.

French experts point out that the value of the products of the Ruhr district amount to $60,000,000,000 paper marks annually and that a 10 per cent tax, for example, would be a considerable amount.

BRITISH MORE STERN

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1922: By The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, Nov. 29.—[Via Tribune Wireless.]—Premier Poincare of France, who will come to London with in a week for a conference with Prime Minister Bonar Law, will receive a warmer welcome than on his last visit. Then, it was reported, he had a furious quarrel with former Prime Minister Lloyd George.

Spain generally, the present government is much more disposed to take a stern attitude toward the Germans than was the Georgian government and therefore is much more likely to adopt the French point of view as far as can be done in accordance with British public opinion, which has been annoyed recently by the French attitude on various questions.

The British government is now disposed to back France, once it is satisfied that the French are demanding only things possible of attainment.

NEW KIDNAPINGS OF GIRLS START DRIVE ON MORONS

Missing Girl, 13, Lured by Man, 43, Theory.

Both police and judiciary got into action against morons yesterday as a result of a fresh outbreak of kidnappings and attacks on young girls.

An all day search for Angelina Haropolous, 13 year old schoolgirl, known to her playmates as the "Greek princess," daughter of Demetrios Haropolous, proprietor of the New Lincoln hotel at 318 South Halsted street, and Charles Colovas, 45 year old peddler, of 311 Halsted street, who, police believed, lured the girl from her home, failed to reveal the whereabouts of either, both having been missing since Tuesday morning. Colovas has two daughters.

Discovery that Colovas had been in jail ten years ago for contributing to the delinquency of two little girls and that he had sold a house for $8,000 last Saturday, strengthened suspicion of police.

Reports Kidnapping of Girl.

An unidentified girl, about 12 years old, was kidnapped at Grand boulevard and East 39th street by three men in an automobile, the police were told by Otto Thompson, 3818 Elmwood avenue. Thompson said the girl appealed to him for aid, but before he could reach her two of the occupants jumped from the car, and, throwing a blanket about the child, hustled her into the machine and sped south. The girl wore a blue dress, black fur coat, and red hat, Thompson said.

When Elsie Tanner, 15 years old, 1506 George street, was found wandering in the loop in a half dazed condition yesterday she told a story of assault and ill treatment that sent the police on the trail of Jim Davis, 23 years old, a dog fancier, of 2017 Prairie avenue, who was serving a sentence for burglary.

Found by Mrs. William J. McCarthy, 2359 West 82d place, in the bedroom of her two daughters, Catherine, 14 years old, and Mary, 12 years old, Milan Vieovich, a former taxi driver, was held to the grand jury on a charge of burglary.

Roy Schuppel and his wife, Bertha, of 219 West Van Buren street, were fined $200 and costs each for contributing to the delinquency of two girl wards of the Juvenile court.

Speculation Closes Tokio Bank with Large Deposits

TOKIO, Nov. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Osaka Nippon Sekki Ginko, a banking house with eleven branches in Osaka and Kyoto and deposits of yen 10,000,000, suspended payment today. Unfortunate investments in shares was given as the reason for suspension.

CERMAK, STEFFEN, KAVANAGH QUIT COUNCIL PLACES

Membership of the Chicago city council dropped to sixty-three after the election of the new members, and the resignations of Aldermen Anton J. Cermak and Maurice F. Kavanagh, elected president and member of the county board, and Ald.

Walter P. Steffen, elected judge of the superior court, resigned.

The resignation of Ald. Cermak came ten years to a day after his resignation from the city council to become alderman of the Municipal court. In all Cermak has been a member of the council for ten years, Kavanagh for four and one-half years, and Steffen for six. After the three aldermen had sung their aldermanic swan songs, a half dozen speeches were made congratulating them on their promotions.

MAYOR'S ADVICE
THREATENS VICE PLAN OF CHIEF

Council Asks Legal O. K.
Be Given.

Chief of Police Fitzmorris' plan to deal with vice through a commission composed of himself, the health commissioner, the building commissioner, and two civilians received a setback yesterday when the city council, at the suggestion of Mayor Thompson, sent it to the city law department for a legal opinion.

By some it was asserted that the mayor regards as illegal the action of the ordinances which would put the power of naming the two civilian members in the hands of Chief Fitzmorris, Health Commissioner Bundesen, and Building Commissioner Bostrom instead of vesting the power in the mayor. It was also predicted that the law department will "chloroform" the chief's plan or at least will revise the section dealing with appointments.

Opposition Was Slight.

Before the mayor's suggestion was made only two aldermen had opposed the plan to combine the powers of the three departments in a war on vice. These were Ald. Guernsey and Lyle.

Lyle asked that the measure be sent back to the judiciary committee. He hinted that Dr. Bundesen and Commissioner Bostrom are not heartily in favor of it.

"We hear of two policemen standing in front of a bawdry to keep a paddle wheel from operating," Ald. Guernsey said. "If these policemen used their stars to force a brothel to close it would close."

"You aldermen who are going to vote for this measure can do the same thing. Take your stars and try it if you don't think it's true."

Accept Two Amendments.

Ald. Oscar Olsen, chairman of the judiciary committee, agreed to two amendments to the ordinance. One provides that the chief shall assign men from the police department needed as employees of the commission. Si Meyer, secretary of the police department, is to be made secretary of the commission under the plan. The other amendment, favored by Ald. Lyle, provides that none of the duties or responsibilities of the police department shall be shifted to the commission.

WOMAN STRUCK BY TRADE.
Struck by a suburban train on the Western Indiana railroad yesterday, Mrs. M. H. Holkstra, 35 years old, was taken to the Indiana Emergency Hospital with a fractured right leg and a scalp wound.

INVITE PARENTS OF STUDENTS TO VISIT SCHOOLS

Supt. Peter A. Mortenson yesterday invited the parents of 400,000 children to visit the public schools next week in connection with a program which by proclamation of President Harding will commemorate American Education week.

"It is of the utmost importance to the welfare of Chicago, of Illinois and the nation that citizens generally learn more of our school needs," he said, the invitation adding:

"The problems of Americanization and citizenship, the problems of illiteracy, as there were in one state according to the 1920 census 174,000 illiterates, the problem of securing qualified teachers for every school and the problem of giving to each child adequate educational opportunity are matters of nation wide importance and should receive especial attention."

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special]—The Democratic filibuster against the Dyer anti-lynching bill continued today with unabated vigor, creating an eightight legislative blockade. The Republicans refused to give up the fight and keep the bill before the senate, but they failed to carry through their threat to hold the senate in session on Thanksgiving day. After an all day tussle, during which a complete tie-up of business prevailed, Republican leaders yielded and agreed to an adjournment until Friday, when the Dyer bill will be taken up again. Use Prayer to Aid Filibuster.

So effectively did the filibusters work today that the senate was unable to dispose of the routine of approving the journal of the previous day's session. Senator Harrison [Miss.], leader of the filibusters, decided that the opening prayer was not included in the journal. He deplored this omission and made a motion to have the prayer included. After several hours' debate on this question the senate, by an overwhelming vote, decided to incorporate the prayer in the journal. Senator Underwood [Ala.], Democratic leader, then moved to adjourn, but the motion was beaten.

Still Wrangling at Adjournment.

Senator Harrison then disclosed another "amazing discovery" in the journal. He pointed out that, although the journal stated that Vice President

U. S. DEGENERACY SEEN IN LAXITY OF LIQUOR LAWS

May Lead to Decay, Says
Federal Appeal.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Attention of federal authorities throughout the country has been officially called to the necessity of cooperating closely with prohibition enforcement agencies with a view to curbing the extensive violations of the statutes.

It has long been the conviction of some government officials that a danger to be faced in liquor violations was the certainty that they would engender in an element of the population a lack of respect for other laws and might lead eventually to a noticeable decay in the country's morale, and federal attorneys are urged to greater activity.

"Expedite Cases," Is Urged.

Attorney General Daugherty, in a circular sent out today, asks that United States attorneys push all pending liquor violation cases, and suggests when proper the imposition of the heaviest penalties on conviction. They are also instructed to expedite all liquor cases on their dockets and advised as to the best procedure in certain classes of cases. Joint action with local authorities is urged.

"Wherever there is an adequate local prohibition law," says the circular, "endeavor by every means at your command to stimulate enforcement of it by local officers. Seek to establish, as far as your office can, a spirit of cooperation between state and federal enforcement agencies, so that each discharge its just proportion of the obligation of enforcement."

"Cereal Booze" Alleged.

Attention is specifically called to reports that some cereal beverage manufacturers are marketing a product of ill-fame.

No suggestion was made in the official instructions that the prohibition enforcement machinery had failed to handle its tasks adequately. The order to federal attorneys, on the contrary, was said to have been drawn with a view to enlisting their cooperation in a campaign to insure general respect for all laws.

GIRL UNITED WITH HER BENEFACTOR PLANS FOR BABY

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—With the outward intimacy of lifelong chums, Nancy Jordan, unwed British mother of a 3 year old boy, and Mrs. Frank G. Warren of Kansas City, wealthy former wife of a man the English girl met in London during the war, today were animatedly planning a future for the young mother and her boy.

The two women met yesterday for the first time at the home of an attorney who met the young mother at Hills Island on telegraphic instructions of Mrs. Warren and posted with the immigration authorities two bonds of $500 each to guarantee against the mother and her son becoming public charges.

"There is nothing startling in this story," Mrs. Warren said. "Perhaps its very simplicity makes it appear complex. My interest in Miss Jordan is due solely to my admiration for her. I have corresponded with her since the birth of her son and she is here as my guest for the winter at least."

Mrs. Warren was asked if she intended to adopt the child.

"I have not had time to talk that over with Miss Jordan yet," she replied. "And, anyway, I don't know whether she would give him up. Would you?" she asked, turning to the girl.

"No, I would not! Never!" replied Miss Jordan.

"I came to this country," Miss Jordan said, "only to see Mr. Warren. I did not come to see Mr. Warren."

Asked bluntly if she intended to marry the young English woman blushed vividly.

"O, dear no! What will they say next!" she cried. "All the love I have is for my little boy, and I have enough to do to take care of him without getting a husband."

Mrs. Warren will remain in New York with Miss Jordan for several days, after which both will go to Kansas City.

ONCE SECTION HAND; BECOMES ROAD'S MANAGER

From section laborer to senior general manager of the Burlington railroad is the advancement announced yesterday by W. F. Thiehoff, vice president of the company. In making public the details of a semi-reorganization of the operating department of the system the official stated that L. B. Allen, present general manager, has resigned on account of ill health. The change with other W. F. THIEHOFF, will become effective Dec. 1.

Mr. Thiehoff, who has been manager of the lines west of the Missouri river, will come to the Chicago office. Thirty-nine years ago he began working for the company as a maintenance of way employee. He became successively a telegraph operator, brakeman, conductor, trainmaster, and superintendent.

BRIDES & QUARTS OF "MOON" DAILY.—"Brides & Quarts of 'Moon'—no day can afford to be 'full,'" said Miss Adams, 26 years old, to Judge Richardson yesterday, when charged with not paying his note. He was discharged on the promise that he would "make good" on them.

"No, I would not! Never!" replied Miss Jordan.

"I came to this country," Miss Jordan said, "only to see Mr. Warren. I did not come to see Mr. Warren."

Asked bluntly if she intended to marry the young English woman blushed vividly.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS TESTED ON TOWED TARGET

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—For the first time in the history of the American army firings have been conducted on a target towed high in the air by an airplane and with enviable results.

Troops of the 1st artillery anti-aircraft battalion, it was disclosed today, had established a fine record at Fortress Monroe, Va., in placing five shots out of twenty-two within destructive range of the flying target, which was towed by a seaplane from the Hampton Roads naval air station.

Coast artillery officers are elated over the result of the test, which they claim is a new era in the development of the American system of anti-aircraft defense for the reason that it has been effectively demonstrated that a target can be towed by an airplane for anti-aircraft target practice without endangering the pilot.

"The target was in the shape of a sleeve, three feet in diameter and fourteen feet long," said a coast artillery officer in describing the target practice. "It was towed through the air at a speed of sixty to eighty miles an hour by a cable 2,500 feet long, which was fastened to Lieut. Patterson's plane."

"No, I would not! Never!" replied Miss Jordan.

"I came to this country," Miss Jordan said, "only to see Mr. Warren. I did not come to see Mr. Warren."

TRACE "GIRL IN BLACK" WHO WEPT AT LANUS' BIER

Police last night declared they had identified a married woman as the "girl in black" who was seen last Monday evening weeping over the casket of "Handsome Joe" Lanus, automobile dealer, who was shot to death last Friday night in his establishment at 4836 West Madison street.

This led to the theory that her husband may have been connected with the killing and the woman and her spouse were ordered kept under surveillance by Capt. John Martin of the Austin avenue station. Capt. Martin declined to give further information regarding her, other than that she is Swedish and lives in the northwest section of Chicago.

While detectives were working on this new angle of the case, they found a ten year old love letter, carefully hidden in a corner of Lanus' desk. It was dated in June, 1914, at a downtown store, and represented Lanus for not "being any more attentive to me than to an ordinary friend" during the two or three days immediately preceding the writing, the letter declared the author was greatly disturbed at his apparent coldness, and fervently declared her love for him.

The signature to this letter was "Harriet Birmingham."

"Whoever the killer was and whatever the motive, I do not believe, after carefully considering the evidence, that there is any possibility of a conviction, as it is indicated the slaying was committed in self defense," Capt. Martin said. "I am convinced that Lanus fired the first shot, missed and was seeking cover when shot in the back. At all accounts this would offer a perfect defense for the killing."

Miss Mabel Gray of Bromley, Ky.

was interviewed by the police yesterday, admitted she had known Lanus a number of years, denied she was engaged to marry him, and "threw no light on the case," according to the officers.

Colonel Agas, who once had a fast fight with Lanus over an automobile deal, and who was questioned last Saturday, was quizzed again yesterday, but, according to the officers, gave no new information.

Rum Peddlers Invade Halls of Learning, Harvard Told

Boston, Mass., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Harvard is being swamped by bootleggers. Conditions are deplorable. Such are the findings of Cambridge police, now striving to rid Harvard of booze peddlers. James S. Johnston and Daniel F. Clifford, arrested in Dunster hall, police say, because they were selling a quart of what is believed to be medicated alcohol, distilled and colored to resemble rye whisky, were held in $400 bail for hearing Tuesday.

SIX BANDITS LOOT BUCK HOME OF $11,000 LIQUOR

Stabbing the houseman and locking him with two maids in a closet, six armed bandits yesterday entered the home of Niels Buck, wealthy contractor, at 5332 Kenmore avenue, and looted it of $11,000 worth of fine liquor which they carried away in a truck.

They were prevented removing more of the stock, which is large and worth thousands of dollars, by return of Mr. Buck's 20 year old son, Donald, who frightened them away.

The bandits posed as federal prohibition agents, said the houseman, who is known to the Bucks as "Judy." Six men drove up on a truck. Four of them got off and went to the basement door which Judy opened. They showed stars and legal looking documents and said they had come to search the basement.

Open Grave in Vacant Lot, Accuse Husband of Murder

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Detectives today dug up the body of Mrs. Jennie Becker from a vacant lot in the Bronx, and charged her husband, Abraham Becker, with murder. Rubin Norkin was arrested as a material witness. He pointed out the spot where the body was buried.

HOUSE PASSES SUBSIDY BILL BY 24 VOTE MARGIN

was done by a vote of 227 to 21. The fact that the amendment had been adopted in the first place only as a part of the strategy of the leaders was evident when Representative Edmonds himself voted to pass it.

The only other important change made in the final day's consideration of the bill was the elimination of the section giving the shipping board authority to prescribe minimum as well as maximum rates for vessels in coastwise trade. This was done on the motion of Representative Edmonds in accordance with the promise of the merchant marine committee to eliminate it because of objections.

Representative Hardy (Tex., Democrat), offered an amendment providing that the shipping board should be allowed to fix reasonable rates on American privately owned vessels. This was defeated by a vote of 68 to 93.

Representative Moore (Va., Democrat) presented an amendment postponing until July 1, 1924, the effective date of the act. This was rejected by a vote of 45 to 175.

"Two Disappointing Features."

The bill as passed is satisfactory to the administration leaders, although they regret the adoption of the requirement for annual appropriations instead of a permanent appropriation and also believe it would have been preferable to have left the interest rates as low as originally proposed.

The bill creates a merchant marine fund by setting aside 10 per cent of the annual customs receipts and all tonnage taxes and provides a graduated scale of direct compensation to American vessels based on speed, tonnage and distance covered.

The bill also provides a number of tax breaks, including tax exemption to vessel owners on earnings from the operation or sale of ships reinvested in new construction, and establishes a construction loan fund of $125,000,000.

Florida StrawberriesHere; Cost $2.50 a Quart

ANSWERS TO BONUS QUERIES

Following are some of the questions concerning the payment of the Illinois Soldiers' bonus which have come to The Tribune and the answers thereto:

Q.—I was born in Illinois and at the outbreak of the war enlisted in the navy at a recruiting station in St. Louis, Mo., to be sworn in. All my records say I am from Illinois, but I wonder if the fact that I was actually assigned to the service in Missouri would stop the state of Illinois from giving me the bonus. H. C. G.

Q.—A young man who was a resident of Ohio registered with the Ohio draft board in Cincinnati. Because of the crowded condition of Cincinnati, which was the headquarters for enlistments, he went across the river to Covington, Ky., to enlist. Can he collect the bonus? If so, where should it apply for it? If not, is Kentucky giving a bonus?

E. H. E.—From the facts given in your letter we would advise him to make application for the Ohio bonus, as let the draft board decide his status. It should apply to the service authorities board at Covington for his bonus. Kentucky is not giving a bonus.

R. W. N.

Q.—The bonus law, paragraph 9 reads: "If any person entitled to compensation shall so desire he may receive payment in whole or in part in bonds which are authorized issued by this act." Except that the law prescribed no method of payment other than in a lump sum.

M. E. H.

Q.—Yes; it was passed Sept. 1, 1922. For a copy of the law write to the commissioner of marine, department of the interior, Washington, D. C.

The discharge certificate of John Hatter has been found and turned in to the American Legion offices, 203 Conway building.

PERSHING TELLS WHY HE FAVORS SUBSIDY BILL

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 29.—In an interview which will appear in the Omaha Bee tomorrow morning, Gen. John J. Pershing expressed himself on the ship subsidy bill.

"I am a staunch advocate of the bill, and am made so by just one glance back to 1917, when we cast our lot with the allies," he said. "At that time we were unable to transport our armies to the theater of war, were dependent upon foreign ships. I cannot but hope we shall never be found in a similar position again."

During the last twenty-five or thirty years America has practically supported foreign shipping. We have sacrificed our independence as a nation in the handling of our own commerce and in the operation of our army and navy. We cannot afford to do it longer. It is impossible to control foreign trade in competition with foreign countries unless we control our shipping."

DRAINAGE BOARD LOPS 117 MORE OFF ITS PAY ROLL

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The sanitary district trustees trimmed 117 jobs from its pay roll yesterday. The saving is about $16,500 a month. Two weeks ago 327 district employees were discharged, making a total eliminated of 344 since the election, but still leaving a pay roll of 1,182—the largest in the district's history.

At the same meeting the trustees voted to issue $3,000,000 more in bonds. These are to bear 4 per cent and to be of the twenty year serial variety.

More significant than the action of the drainage trustees was that of the circuit court, Judge Fisher, Arnold and Lynch. They ordered Anton J. Cermak, president elect of the county board, to obtain bids from private contractors for the cleaning and heating of the county buildings and submit them to the judges on Dec. 6.

This makes certain the judges will order a reduction in the janitors' pay roll of the county building. It makes it more certain than if the judges had announced such an intention. Because the bids will be conclusive evidence that a large part of the $32,500 janitors' pay roll could be saved the taxpayers, and the judges are not collecting evidence to show that they could save money and then refuse to save it at least.

The judges did not indicate that they will have private contractor clean and heat the county building, but that is a possibility. Mr. Cermak and Sheriff Elect Hoffman are fighting over which shall appoint and employ the janitors, scrub women, window washers and mechanics employed in operating the building. This issue is to be taken up also on Dec. 6. After the bids are received the judges may decide that a private contractor will care for the building better and cheaper than either Mr. Cermak or Mr. Hoffman. Judge Fisher, as spokesman for his associates told Cermak and Hoffman yesterday that "the practical question" is the care and the cost of the care of the building rather than who shall be the chief janitor of it.

Only one in the last twenty years have the judges decreased the number of jobs in the fee offices. That year when the bureau of public officials presented detailed information on some office between 1912 and 1921 the judges increased the number of jobs in the fee offices by 25%, an average of nearly 42 a year.

The judges did not indicate that they will have private contractor clean and heat the county building, but that is a possibility. Mr. Cermak and Sheriff Elect Hoffman are fighting over which shall appoint and employ the janitors, scrub women, window washers and mechanics employed in operating the building. This issue is

24 NEW TRIANGLE SUITS MARK WAR ON LOVE PIRATES

More than half of the marriages which become grief for Chicago's divorce mill are wrecked because of the blighting influence of a third person, declared Judge Timothy D. Hurley, whose startling proposal to jail or at least confine from further interference "love pirates" who are mentioned in the court aroused storms of approbation and disapproval in various circles yesterday.

Twenty-four suits for divorce filed yesterday in Superior and Circuit courts included charges or intimations that a home and family had been abandoned by the wife for law and decency.

done when the defendant became infatuated with another. Of forty-five suits filed, seventeen were based on alleged cruelty or drunkenness.

Judge Defends Stand.

"I am not attempting single handed to wipe off the so-called 'divorce evil' or eliminate the 'triangle' from society," declared Judge Hurley, when the three leading attorneys condemned the legality of his drive on "easy divorce and love pirates," they doubtless generically.

"Divorce as an institution is here to stay and the law recognises it," continue the judge, "but my conscience and my oath of office will not permit me to sanction in a decree the disruption of a home without striking at the rasher whenever opportunity offers."

See Peril to Decrees.

"Unless someone who is familiar with the work of the love doctor by daily observance of its effects undertakes to use what power he may have to halt them, these moral devils who are attacking the very foundation of our civilization, the home, will disregard respect for law and decency."

PLAN TO FINISH VOTER TABULATION SATURDAY NIGHT

Indications last night were that the candidates of election for the winners in the county, sanitary district, and municipal court election of Nov. 7 will be completed Saturday night and will be ready for those next Monday.

Judges and clerks of several precincts are to be called before the election commissions' canvassing board tomorrow morning, and when the results in these places are fixed the final tabulation of the city vote will be hastened to completion as rapidly as possible. The certificates of the vote on state offices and on the little ballot boxes probably will be in Springfield Monday morning.

The Marriage Flaw

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

John Corbeyne, one of England's great financiers, is about to be launched on a political career. Sylvia, his second wife, was formerly the ward of Lord Carfax. The latter is managing Corbeyne's political campaign.

After a conference with Carfax, Corbeyne receives a telephone call from Katherine, his first wife, whom he has not seen for ten years, asking him to call on her at her hotel. He goes with reluctance.

This story began Monday. Start reading it today.

INSTALLMENT IV.

"I WANT YOU."

Corbeyne looked at the typewritten paper again. He frowned. Something was wrong somewhere! He searched for the errors and could not find it. He glanced at Katherine. She had adopted the beaten wife attitude; an excitement he could not yet fathom had driven her out of it for the moment. When she spoke again, it was fast and clearly, though she had learned her statements by heart or been coached in them. While one side of John Corbeyne's brain grappled with the facts she flung at him, another side was recording that strong impression—that she had been told to say what she was saying.

"I gave my oath I hadn't been unfaithful.

John, but your lawyers played tricks with my evidence, and the verdict went against me. In other words, those brilliant lawyers found I was living in Kent with a man who was in Parkhurst prison at the time. You were all quite certain about it. You proved to your own satisfaction that he was with me. Now at last I can prove that strong impression—that she had been told to say what she was saying.

"Will you deny we were ever unfaithful with any one?" he heard him say.

"I am profoundly sorry for you, Katherine," he said.

"Will you deny we were ever unfaithful with any one?" he heard him say.

"I deny it absolutely."

"Have you forgotten those letters of his?"

"I haven't forgotten anything." She had raised her voice in her eagerness to confute him. It was shrill, jarred him inexplicably. "He and I planned to go there, all right. There wasn't any mistake about our plans. Only, they didn't come off. And, what's more, I can prove they didn't, now."

Corbeyne began to pace the room. His brain was clearing; it was weighing his and her story.

"Just listen to me, Katherine," he said. "My lawyers put in those letters of his planning your joint sojourn in the cottage in Kent. They put in his rent receipt. There were a number of other minor facts, all pointing to your intent. You went to the cottage on a proved date—I think it was Sept. 14. Three days later an agent, employed by my solicitors, by name Shrager, called at the cottage and served papers on Lord Henry Graunham and yourself."

"You'll excuse me, John, but he swore he served them on Lord Henry Graunham in the cottage. But it was a lie. Lord Henry Graunham wasn't in the cottage, and served papers on Lord Henry Graunham and yourself."

"Some of the fellow's clothing was found in the cottage after you left it!"

"I desay. He intended to come. I keep telling you that. But that doesn't alter the fact that, as it turned out, he did not come."

"H'm! I shan't, of course, immediately get in touch with Shrager and—"

"You can't. He's lying low. Don't you understand I've only got to give the word and there'll be a warrant for perjury out against him?"

Corbeyne extinguished his cigarette, stood still for a moment, then lit another.

"If Shrager was lying—if it was not Lord Henry Graunham—who was it? There must have been some man there."

Again he was answered with hard glibness that suggested a rehearsed opportunity.

"You say there must have been some man there. Well, I say there was not. I swear there was not. What do you bring against my oath? Nothing. You can't take it for granted that I must have been unfaithful; if you like. But you can't prove it. I wasn't."

Corbeyne did not believe her. But so far she was unanswerable. At this stage it was definitely impossible to prove her infidelity. Yet the manner of her denial left him convinced that she lied. True, the man could not have been Graunham, as he had believed. To that extent he had maligned her. To that extent he had apparently given her a real grievance: something very different from the imagined slights and cruelties with which she used to insult him to her own vengeful satisfaction.

Corbeyne studied his cigarette. He felt at the most colossal disadvantage imaginable.

"I am bound to accept your denial, Katherine," he said, with a touch of concession, gallantry, and support. "I accept you of an infidelity I cannot prove done you, but an act of great injury as a man can do a woman. If there were any means possible of balancing the wrong—"

She smiled with her lips. There was no longer light enough for him to see clearly the expression in her eyes. They gleamed queerly, almost slyly.

"There's a way of balancing it, all right," she said. There was now a perceptible coarseness in her voice. It evoked in Corbeyne an intense longing to have done with her and be gone.

"Of course you must let me—" he began with a nervous laugh.

"There's no need for you to do anything," she interrupted. "It's me that's going to do things this time."

"Do things? Do what?"

"Reopen the case."

"No."

She had uncloaked herself from the chair with a studied languor that somehow brought her close to him. Too close at a moment like this, when the weapon she had unsheathed had him in her power. Heads, heavens, would she sense his dislike of her and her ways? He drew back sharply, then dismissed himself. He might be just, but was her accusation not a direct reproach of justice? He forced himself to state her case for him.

"Judgment was given against you on a fact which, it appears, you can now prove was not a fact. You think, therefore, that on your application the judgment would be rescinded. Well, I doubt it. A decree is absolute. There has never been a test case of this nature. I don't think for a moment it would come off."

The gentleman I saw this afternoon—a lawyer, he was—he said he thought there was a good chance indeed that it would come off," she said, with slow emphasis. She was still smiling. "But we won't wrangle about that, because I shall only reopen the case if you won't give me what I want."

"If it's anything I can give you—"

Presently John Corbeyne became aware that she was speaking; her voice now was low, and there was an undercurrent of tension behind her words. That night he had had to jerk his arm away from around her shoulder. He was a little too close for comfort.

"What do you think I've been doing these last ten years, John? I've been going from boarding house to boarding house. Thanks to you, I was a little bit off on that account, but they'd whisper behind my back and watch me like cat when there were any men about. They didn't know I'd been divorced. It was just that I wasn't dead looking and couldn't show a husband. First I thought maybe I'd marry again, but the men"—her white face twisted—"those I met, anyway, they're all beasts. Twice I settled alone in a small way—in a suburb, the second time in the provinces. It was worse there; the neighbors called once. Well, I want a third chance. I want a home, and you'll show I'm as good as anybody."

Corbeyne took a long breath. He found it difficult to refrain from embarrassed laughter. Then he noticed that there was something odd in Katherine's manner. It was neither the old pretense of being driven and dominated. nor the new mechanical hardness that sounded as though some one were behind her in attack. It was rather of the quality he had detected in her laugh—a nervous shyness that would be deaf reason.

"I am profoundly sorry for you, Katherine," he said. "I have injured you, and I shall carry that knowledge about with me until my death. At the same time, the remedy—you propose—is impossible. I propose that I double your allowance, buy you a car and some furs and so on, and that you then marry a better set of people than the boarding house level. You'd get friends soon enough; you'd marry—"

She cut in doggedly: "I don't want your money. I don't want another husband. I want to go back with you to that suburb where they sneered at me and showed that I'm as good as they are. And if you won't come I shall tell the lawyer to start proceedings against Shrager."

The full strength of her position had not yet come home to him. "But, my dear girl, what would you gain by reopening it? You'd see my career ruined through the publicity and Sylvia made thoroughly uncomfortable; but that's all. Because the legal tie that would fetter you and me again, if your ultimate action were successful, would be broken easily enough again, by your divorcing me; after which Sylvia and I would remarry."

"You're not very bright, are you, John? I wouldn't divorce you."

To Corbeyne's words came in that instant weapons that broke in his hands. He could only gaze at this woman, gape and stare, while fear such as he had never known before welled up in his heart.

"I thought you grasped me well, I suppose she's got friends that would make us be married and all well. I suppose she's got friends that would stick to her; of course, it's hard on the child, but then it's been hard on me these years; you can see that."

Nora Bayes Sings Opera in English

It's Her Own Version, but It's Effective.

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

Miss Nora Bayes, skilfully gowned in black and wielding the biggest fan I ever saw, presides jubilantly over the current festivities at the Garrick. Two times she sings and then the curtain falls; if you want more you must demand success. The ruse works well, and the rhythmic hand-clappers, given precisely what they were meant to have anyway, are pleasantly kidded in thinking they get more than their money's worth.

They get a plenty in any event, for Miss Bayes is a generous entertainer, glad, she says, to be back in her home town, and seemingly in high spirits as ever. Her voice is a thing of fine timbre, and if her sense of fun seems to be getting the better of her erstwhile gift for the denouement of plays, I don't know that her admirers mind.

They liked best, yesterday, the climax of her offering—a hard-boiled song, which some one has fitted, disturbingly, to the familiar aria from "Samson and Delilah." It narrates, concerning the lady of the fable, that her whiskers would provoke her—

When she kissed them they would choke her, and proceeds in like vein to a denouement which I didn't catch. Its success should be an impressive argument for the devotees of opera in English.

There is no revue this week, a bill of costume, vaudeville, has been submitted in its place. The main spirit of the exercises are those participated in by the Hannefords, a family of bareback riders, with horses, a regular circus ring, and an amazing clown, who seems equally at home on top of a steed or in the air.

Weber and Fields at Hand; Notes.

Lively competition continues among the purveyors of vaudeville, though there are persistent rumors that the war of the overlords may not last forever. The Garrick next week will have Weber and Fields, heading their own company in the show called "Re-united" and reviving a number of the classic travesties handed down from their musty hall days. At the Palace Miss Sophie Tucker, newly returned from a triumphal progress through England, will be the headliner.

Mr. Woodie, farce of "The Devil's Grip," reported to be very natty, is due for a second visit in La Salle on Dec. 17. William Hodge, discovering a lively interest in his play, "For Us of Us," talks of seeking another theater if his appointed time at the La Salle appears to be not enough.

"Parfais" will be sung tonight with Joseph Schwarz making his first appearance of the season as Amfortas, Miss Van Gordon as Kundry, Forrest Lamont as Parsifal, and Ettore Panizzi conducting. Through the length of England, will be the headliner.

Mr. Woodie, farce of "The Devil's Grip," reported to be very natty, is due for a second visit in La Salle on Dec. 17. William Hodge, discovering a lively interest in his play, "For Us of Us," talks of seeking another theater if his appointed time at the La Salle appears to be not enough.

Sponsors of the annual Actors' Fund performance chose a date for the event yesterday and began certain preliminary measures of preparation. It will be given at the Auditorium on the afternoon of Friday, March 16.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The photograph of Harry H. Lampert, member of the firm of Minter & Co., bond brokers, was printed in The Tribune of Nov. 18th as that of Harry Lampert, manufacturer, accused of infidelity by his wife. Mr. Harry Lampert is unmarried and has no connection whatever with Mr. Henry Lampert.

THE TRIBUNE in a recent issue stated that Hyde Park High School Week had won first place in the state "better high school" publication contest. This is misleading. Hyde Park will place only in its class, which included all schools having an enrollment of more than 2,000.

An extra element was added to the "Sniegurotschka" performance at the Auditorium last night. As M. Clement entered box 3 the curtains were drawn, disclosing the chorus in line, and Edouard Cottereau, who sang the "Marsellaise," and Cyrena Van Gordon, who, in the costume of Collette, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question C. W. Carroll, Loyola university, was awarded $5.

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR AMUSEMENTS.

All astrological signs point to this as a fortunate day. A lucky day for romance and love affairs, for theaters, for motion picture houses, for all amusements which caters to the pleasurable affaire of life.

A troublesome year is forecast, both for health and business, unless undue precaution is taken by those whose birth date is 18.

You have a good head for business and a good heart for those whose friend you are. You are inclined to be a warrior, however, which does not carry out the promise of a well balanced mind. But it is in your intense desire to serve to the fullest capacity whatever is demanded of your position that you become overtired and worried. Your self-confidence is never arrogant. Your love nature is strong, and you give and demand much affection from those about you. You could put yourself to no end of trouble for one who enlisted your sympathy.

Children born on this day are likely to be clever, inclined to be extravagantly generous, but with perseverance as a valuable possession.

Might Give Him a Hint.

Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 26 and have been keeping company with a man six years my senior for almost three years. He has never told me he loves me, but by his actions sometimes I think he does. He is always in my thoughts and I know I shall never love another man. Do you think it proper for me to ask him if he loves me?

YVONNE.

Well, if he has been a-hanging around for three years, I should resort to some approved system of forcing a declaration, one way or the other.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $1 for each child's saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unvaluable contributions. Send them to the editor of the paper. Address Bright Sayings to Auntie Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

I have some chickens, and as some have been sick I have been feeding them a medicated mash.

Harold has been willing to take it to them until today when he complained, "O, mother, I'm tired of being a hen nurse."

My nephew was invited to a party the other day.

After playing games for a half hour or so, he said, "O, I wonder when the party will begin."

Moments of Misery.

happened to be among the number who were to be weighed.

We went into the office where the nurse was waiting. She kindly bid us to sit down, and we did so, and we have surplus weight.

Upon removing my shoes I discovered a large hole in the toe of both stockings.

You can imagine what uneasiness I stood upon the scales with that group of smiling onlookers. J. H.

Bachelors and Beneficiaries Give Brilliant Ball

From the opera and from late dinner parties guests for the first big ball of the season, the Bachelors' and Beneficiaries' annual Thanksgiving eve dance, were not assembled until after 11 o'clock last night at the Congress. If nothing was accomplished in the interests of the "earlier hours" campaign now on among Chicago hostesses, at least another mark of favor was registered on the long established record of the Bachelors and Beneficiaries for hospitality and entertainment.

Departing from their usual custom there was no program during supper, good music and plenty of dancing finding greater favor with the guests.

With the Beneficiaries, with the exception of Mrs. Wm. C. Chatfield-Taylor, who is in mourning, and Mrs. Kent Clow, who is absent from the city, formed the receiving line.

Miss Laurence Armour was among the hostesses; also Mrs. Lester Armour, who wore turquoise blue and silver brocade and a diamond bandage. Mrs. Charles E. Brown Jr., Mrs. Jay Morey Ely, Mrs. William H. Mitchell Jr., Mrs. Lawrence B. Robbins, and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. made up the reception committee. Mrs. Mitchell wore a black velvet gown with a bodice of silver cloth. The long train was also lined with silver and jeweled bands finished the shoulder line.

Noted on the dance floor were Mr. and Mrs. Keith Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Campanelli Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Loring Colman, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Cushing Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Miss Elizabeth Newberry, Miss Elizabeth Hindle, Miss Mary Rend, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Seiff Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Viles, Mr. and Mrs. Thornhill Broome III, and Mr. and Mrs. William Gold Hibbard III, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Parker of 55 Lake Shore drive will be at home today from 4 to 7 o'clock to receive their daughter, Mrs. Louise Bowen Phelps, and her children; and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick Blair, and their children, for dinner. Mrs. Bowen Jr. has been ill and still is confined to her home in Lake Forest, so will be unable to attend the family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell of 1550 State parkway will have with them most of their family, including their debutante daughter, Louise; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell Jr. (Lollie Armand) and Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell II (Ginevra King), and their children. Clarence Mitchell, a student at Yale, is spending the holiday in the east.

Mrs. Gertrude Bissell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Bissell of 5725 Lincoln avenue, will make her debut at a tea at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth and Miss George Faulkner of 4746 Dorchester avenue. Assisting in receiving will be Mrs. L. Hamilton Chandler and Mrs. Marx Overdorfer, sisters of Mrs. Bissell, and the Misses Faulkner; Mrs. Arthur Bissell and Mrs. George Francis Bissell of Ottawa, Ill., sister-in-law of the debutante. Assisting will be Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Miss Anna Kales, Miss Emily Bissell, Miss Polly Packard, Miss Helen Isham, Miss Edith Farnsworth, Miss Frances Wood, Miss Esther Mordock, Miss Margaret Monroe, Miss Alice de Windt, Miss Virginia Denney, Miss Josephine Hoye, Miss Anna Gwin Pickens, Goodman, Miss and Mrs. Deaconess Jarrett of San Antonio, Tex. After the tea there will be a buffet supper for the assistants and their escorts, after which the party will attend the Gardner ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift of 1550 State parkway will be their sons, T. Philip Swift and Edward F. Swift Jr., and their wives; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, and children; Mr. Swift's brother, Gustavus F. Swift Jr., and his wife and children; Mr. Swift's other two brothers, Harold and Charles Swift; Mrs. Gustavus Swift's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Bissell, and their children. Clarence Mitchell, a student at Yale, is spending the holiday in the east.

Dining with Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift of 1550 State parkway will be their sons, T. Philip Swift and Edward F. Swift Jr., and their wives; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, and children; Mr. Swift's brother, Gustavus F. Swift Jr., and his wife and children; Mr. Swift's other two brothers, Harold and Charles Swift; Mrs. Gustavus Swift's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Bissell, and their children. Clarence Mitchell, a student at Yale, is spending the holiday in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Gardsen of 416 Surf street are giving a dance tonight at the Congress for her debutante sister, Miss Alice de Windt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heyliger A. de Windt of Winnetka. L. C. Foster A. Foster of Winnetka will give a dinner at the Congress for Miss de Windt preceding the dance. Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughay of the Surf will be hostess at a dinner for her debutante daughter, Margaret, at the Congress before the dance.

Miss Mason Bros is giving a luncheon today at her residence, 20 East Gothic street, for Miss Laura Thompson and Miss Polly Packard, debutantes.

Today will be children's day at the Saddle and Cycle Club. Hampden Weston is chairman of the entertainment committee and Frank Hibbard is assistant chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen of 2106 Lincoln Park West are spending today with Mr. and Mrs. Joy Morton on their farm at Havana, Ill.

Miss Phelps B. Hoyt of 40 East Cedar street is spending Thanksgiving with her younger daughter, Emelie, in New York. Emelie attends Dobbs Ferry.

LANDIS MUM ON CHARGES HURLED BY AL TEARNEY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
Charges of discrimination hurled at Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis by Al Tearney, president of the Western and Three Eyes leagues, fell on deaf ears yesterday. The letter in which Tearney voiced his dissatisfaction with a couple of matters pertaining to two of his clubs and the White Sox was given the once-over by the commissioner, but the latter refused to make a statement for publication.

RAN JOHNSON.

All that Landis could be induced to say was that he had no desire to enter into a controversy with Tearney. When asked whether he would investigate Tearney's charges in connection with the Sox knowingly playing against Tim Murchison, an ineligible, at Ottawa, Ill., he offered no reply. However, in view of Tearney submitting facts not previously known to the commissioner, it is probable that an investigation will take place.

May Cause Split.

It is likely that Tearney will get his reply during the minor league convention at Louisville next week. Those who know the commissioner are inclined to believe that he will hold his tongue until the minors gather, and then will tear loose with all guns.

Should Landis openly assue Tearney for his defiance of the commissioners' judgment, a split might ensue. The three big class AA leagues stand with Tearney's two circuits against the draft. In the event of a jam they might line up with Tearney and bring several other important minors with them.

May Change Opening Date.

President Ban Johnson of the American league returned from the south yesterday and announced that the two big leagues might change their plans to open the season April 17, which is a week later than customary. Johnson said this date had been accepted at the suggestion of Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh, but it happened to fall on Tuesday, instead of Wednesday, so when the major owners meet in annual session they will vote on the question of opening either April 13 or April 11. Johnson now favors the latter.

SOCER STARS OF TWO LEAGUES TO PLAY HERE TODAY

Soccer stars from the Detroit District league will meet luminaries from the Major league of Chicago this afternoon in the first of a two game series at Cicero avenue and Roosevelt road. The second game will be played Sunday. Two former Chicago favorites, Hank Higgins and Oliver Stewart, will be in the lineup. Higgins, who played full back for the Canadian club here, was considered the best defender in the league last year. Oliver, center forward, was with the Lincoln Parkers.

Besides Weir and Gardiner, who are making their first appearance in an intercity match for a representative Chicago team, the others making their debut today are Joe Falconer, Thompson, Greene, Blair, and George Cant. J. E. Stark, international referee, will officiate.

HOLD NATIONAL COLLEGE GAMES HERE JUNE 15, 16

The managing committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association track and field meet, consisting of T. E. Jones of the University of Wisconsin, J. L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the conference, and A. A. Stagg, chairman, has decided to hold the third annual track and field meet June 15, 16.

It had been hoped to hold the meet one week earlier, but as the University of Chicago alumni had priority rights to the use of the field for their annual day exercises June 9, it was either a question of transferring the meet to some other city or postponing it to June 16, which corresponds to the date of the two preceding meets.

SARAZEN MAY PASS UP NATIONAL OPEN MEET FOR PLAY IN BRITAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Gene Sarazen may not defend the national open golf championship at Inwood next June, as he intends to go abroad to compete in the British open event carried the same month. Gene seems to be decided to regard this matter as the change of dates as something beyond a personal issue. He is wondering why, just when he is champion, the Professional Golf association makes a recommendation that quite possibly may prevent his playing, as Hagen and Hutchinson and Barnes were able to do in the last few years, first in the British open and then in the American event.

SPIKES CHARGE OF MORGENTHAU ON TURKISH OIL

U.S. Takes Humanitarian Stand in Near East.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Published attacks upon the position the American government is taking at the Lausanne conference, attributed to Henry under the Wilson administration, prompted the state department to issue a formal denial today, aimed rather at the implications involved in Morgenthau, ambassador to Turkey, the printed version of Mr. Morgenthau's remarks than at the specific allegations they contained.

The specific statement involved alleged cooperation of the state department with the Standard Oil company obtain recognition by the Dutch Shell company, British concern, of a portion of its interests in Palestine in favor of the American company. The department's statement said Mr. Morgenthau had been either incorrectly quoted or misinformed in this connection.

Commercial Aid Charged.

The general implication read by department officials into Mr. Morgenthau's remarks was that the American government was chiefly concerned at Lausanne or elsewhere in obtaining commercial opportunities in the near east for American oil companies. In that connection the department's statement said:

"The implication in this statement was vigorously denied by the department."

The only action taken by the department which could possibly be referred to in the published account, the statement continued, "was its mandate notes asking for equal opportunity for American enterprise in mandate territories—an attitude which this administration has taken as well as the prior administration."

Standard Has Permits.

The Standard Oil company is understood to hold a number of permits from the Turkish government for oil fields in Palestine. There has been friendly correspondence between Washington and London in connection with these, and it was said that the British authorities had shown no inclination to deny their validity.

In none of these matters, however, was the Dutch Shell company concerned.

As to the general attitude of the American delegation at Lausanne, it can be said authoritatively that instructions to Ambassador Child make it plain that a paramount interest of the United States relates to humanitarian considerations.

Hans' Discussed Treaty.

Conferences at Lausanne between Ambassador Child and the Turkish delegates are believed to have dealt with such questions rather than with preliminary steps toward a separate treaty with Turkey.

The open door policy of the United States is being followed. This has already been stated to the conference by the ambassador. Broadly speaking, it is said, this would cover American concern with even the difficult question of the freedom of the Turkish straits.

CHARGE FRAUD TO 4 HELD IN REALTY COMPANY'S CASE

Complainants crowded the offices of the department of registration and education at 130 North Wells street yesterday following news of the arrest of four officers of the Active Realty company, who are charged with operating without a license. All alleged they had been defrauded by the company into paying for a house and lot and had received only a lot in return. In the meantime the four, three men and a woman—Otto Blaha, Harry Finegold, Herman Liebring, and Mrs. E. Martin—were arraigned before Judge Head in Municipal court, who set their case for trial on Dec. 1. Steps also were taken by First Assistant State's Attorney Jonas to have indictments voted against them if the evidence warranted.

VIGILANTES AND OIL MEN BATTLE IN RESORT RAID

El Dorado, Ark., Nov. 29.—"Slim" Sanders, alleged owner of an undesirable resort, was shot and killed, several of the alleged lawless element were tarred and feathered, and a considerable number of alleged objectionable persons were driven out of the Smackover field section in a series of raids last night and early today, made by a committee of two hundred "vigilantes."

Shots Are Exchanged.

A band of oil workers, numbering about twenty-five, is reported to have resisted the attempt to expel undesirables and to have fired on the raiders, a number of shots having been exchanged. Sheriff John B. Newton and a number of deputies from Camden arrived after the fight had ended.

So far as can be learned tonight, no members of the citizens' committee were wounded.

Sanders refused to leave the oil field section, according to reports, telling the raiders to come on boys. "I've only one life to live, any way." He is said to have been shot as he was drawing his pistol.

Resort Is Burned.

At least one, and probably more of the alleged objectionable resorts in the Smackover section were burned during the raids and the tenants ordered to leave immediately. Almost all the undesirables are reported to have left tonight, and no further trouble is expected.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Believed to have been a drug addict, Louis Nathan, 33 years old, a laborer, 324 East 24th street, was found dead in his house yesterday with a rubber tube connected to an open gas jet in his mouth.

WISCONSIN WILL DROP WATER SUIT AGAINST ILLINOIS

AWARDED D. S. M.

No Dunes Park This Year; Indiana Must Economize

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Gov. John J. Blaine of Wisconsin today, in a letter to Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee, announced his intention of having dismissed the state of Wisconsin's action before the United States Supreme court seeking to restrain the state of Illinois from diverting water from Lake Michigan for the Chicago drainage canal. The governor declared that in his opinion success of the Wisconsin litigation would mean shattering the hopes of Lake Michigan ports for a deep waterway to the gulf.

The governor intimated that action to dismiss the suit, which was initiated by Attorney General Morgan, would be taken after the latter leaves office on Jan. 1.

Loss of Important Link.

The governor on his recent trip through the Mississippi valley said he was asked why Wisconsin, if it is interested in the development of waterways, started the action against Illinois, which has a canal which will be one of the important links of the lake to gulf route.

"My only answer," the governor said in his letter, "was that I was not officially responsible for the bringing of that suit and that was my opinion that the problems involved in all probabilities were lightly considered, and that the attorney general who brought the action will not succeed himself in office."

Doubtless Value of Suit.

"At the time the suit was first suggested, I had grave doubts regarding the merits of the litigants. The governor added that he felt that Wisconsin's interests would be best served by a completion of the waterway from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi, and that the litigation would only defeat Wisconsin's demand for water transportation."

BRITAIN HALTS JUNKING SHIPS AT PARIS STAND

Far Ahead of Other Nations on Treaty.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune.
LONDON, Nov. 29.—By THE TRIBUNE'S exclusive interview with M. Leguay of France, chairman of the committee on foreign relations in the chamber of deputies, denouncing the Washington naval agreement was indirectly referred to in the house of commons today by Ronald McNeill, undersecretary of foreign affairs, in answering questions.

He said the United States, Great Britain, and Japan were now in a position to deposit ratifications of the Washington agreement, but he had no information as to the present attitude of the French government.

Later Eyles Monsell, answering for the admiralty, said that the Washington pact had been ratified by Great Britain, Japan, and the United States, but not by France or Italy.

British Junk Ships Now.

Eight British capital ships have been rendered useless for war purposes already and have been sold for breaking up. So far as is known, the United States and Japan have not yet disposed of any of the ships under possibly obsolete craft which would have been scrapped due course, but until the treaty is ratified by all the powers some are bound to dispose of ships.

Mr. Monsell gave the following figures as to the present strength in capital ships: Great Britain, twenty-three, of which one is to be scrapped on ratification; the United States, twenty-six, of which eight are to be scrapped; and Japan, fifteen, of which two are to be scrapped. The United States has fifteen in various stages of completion, of which, under treaty, only two are to be completed. The battleships are to be followed by airplane carriers.

Japan has two building. Two warships are to be used as airplane carriers, and two are to be scrapped.

AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—It was pointed out at the State department today that no authority exists to comply with the terms of the Washington treaty, beyond the suspension of construction of new vessels. Certain vessels of the American fleet which would be scrapped under the Washington treaty are out of date and have been out of commission, but they are not regarded as wholly obsolete and therefore the navy department cannot proceed to junk them.

The British government had placed contracts for two superdreadns just before the conference met, and canceled those contracts when the Washington agreement was reached. So far as is known here, it was said this cancellation is the only "scrapping" of war vessels under the treaty which has been carried on by the British, or which would have been expected of them prior to promulgation of the treaty or its ratification by all five signatories as provided in the treaty itself.

PATRONS SUBMIT PLANS TO SAVE ILLINOIS RAILWAY

Protest Wrecking of C. P. & St. L. Line.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—Patrons of the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railroad, whose bondholders have petitioned the Circuit court here for permission to dismantle the line, sell the right of way to farmers, and disband the company, today prepared to wage a strenuous opposition and carry their case before the Illinois commerce commission.

The first action along this line came today when Herbert A. Tuchy of Springfield, chairman of the recently formed bondholders' committee, addressed letters to the chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and to C. C. McChord of the Interstate commerce commission.

Capable of Earnings.

The letter asked this question: "Shall $8,000,000 property, having a potential earning capacity sufficient to net a fair return on $4,000,000, be totally destroyed in order that the owners of only one-fourth of the total, will realize approximately 85 cents on the dollar?"

The letter added that those who would lose $6,000,000 by dismantling the property are entitled to consideration as well as the first mortgage bond holders.

British to Come with "Open Mind" on Debt Funding

LONDON, Nov. 29.—[By the Associated Press.]—The chancellor of the exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, will go to Canada next week on his debt funding mission unhampered by instructions from the government, Prime Minister Bonar Law stated today in the house of commons.

All HE SAW WAS WHISKY.

"I intended to see the world and all I saw was whisky," said John Mann, 57 years old, of Kansas City, Mo., an exhibitor in the coming stock show, charged with drunkenness and discharged with a warning by Judge Eller yesterday.

Three plans are suggested.

The first is reorganization of the road with $4,000,000 of new capital or bonded obligations, of which $1,000,000 would be paid out to satisfy the claims of the first mortgage bond holders, thus causing them a loss of $750,000, the same amount as would be lost should the line be scrapped.

Suggest $3,000,000 Capital.

The second proposal is reorganization with $3,000,000 new capital, of which $300,000 would be used in exchange for first mortgage bonds, causing a loss in this instance of $1,250,000.

The third plan, which is most talked of, is an amalgamation of the line with some connecting road that would open for both new opportunities for increased business.

Mr. Monsell gave the following figures as to the present strength in capital ships: Great Britain, twenty-three, of which one is to be scrapped on ratification; the United States, twenty-six, of which eight are to be scrapped; and Japan, fifteen, of which two are to be scrapped. The United States has fifteen in various stages of completion, of which, under treaty, only two are to be completed. The battleships are to be followed by airplane carriers.

Japan has two building. Two warships are to be used as airplane carriers, and two are to be scrapped.

AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—It was pointed out at the State department today that no authority exists to comply with the terms of the Washington treaty, beyond the suspension of construction of new vessels. Certain vessels of the American fleet which would be scrapped under the Washington treaty are out of date and have been out of commission, but they are not regarded as wholly obsolete and therefore the navy department cannot proceed to junk them.

The British government had placed contracts for two superdreadns just before the conference met, and canceled those contracts when the Washington agreement was reached. So far as is known here, it was said this cancellation is the only "scrapping" of war vessels under the treaty which has been carried on by the British, or which would have been expected of them prior to promulgation of the treaty or its ratification by all five signatories as provided in the treaty itself.

ARGENTINE NEWS IS UNFAVORABLE; GRAINS MOVE UP

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Numerous private cables telling of unfavorable weather and crop conditions in the Argentine had a decided effect on the wheat market and with increased buying by commission houses and shorts prices advanced readily. Closing trades were within a fraction of the top with net gains of $\frac{1}{4}$ c. with May leading. Corn reflected the strength in wheat and gained $\frac{1}{4}$ c. while oats were unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. higher.

First threshing returns from Argentina show disappointing yields and quality of wheat and heavy rains have failed for two days. This brought in a score of private cables expressing fears of damage, and haul was also reported in the northern sections. Liverpool reflected considerable uneasiness and at one time was $\frac{1}{4}$ c. higher, but finished only $\frac{1}{4}$ c. higher.

December corn acted tight and at the top was within $\frac{1}{4}$ c. of the best price December grain and finished at the best price of the season, closing about $\frac{1}{4}$ c. over the May despite liquidation by several large early. Messages from the south indicated continued good cash demand while local shipping sales were heavier at 25,000 bushels, including a cargo of 250,000 bu. to Canada.

Oats showed fair activity, but trade was largely local and the action of other grain was the main influence. Shipping demand was better.

No export demand was reported for rye at the seaboard and the spot basis here was easier. Trade in futures was less active.

Trade in provisions was slow, but cotton oil and hogs closed with hard unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. higher, and ribs 25¢ higher. Packing of hams was off for the season to date, as compiled by the Price Current-Grain Report.

and harmful effects of Illinois' present organic law."

Attacks Present Tax System.

Much of his attention was given to the "combined injustice and immorality" of the state's present revenue system. He spoke of the "injustice by which an enormous and unfair proportion of the tax burden is borne by real estate and the 'immorality' by which holders of intangible property such as stocks and bonds have been able to dodge taxes and virtually escape to do so."

"Illinois, like numerous other states," he said, "should have abandoned the uniform tax rate long ago. Its injustice has been demonstrated, and, because of it, a large proportion of intangible property has escaped taxation altogether."

"Consider stocks, bonds, and mortgages. The tax rate in this state is frequently 2½ per cent of the cash value. If the law were enforced or a conscientious owner of such securities made full disclosure, owners of 5 per cent securities would be required to pay half their incomes in taxes."

Laws Not Enforced.

"Enforcement of the law would compel owners to acquire residence where the tax laws are less burdensome and Illinois would be the loser. So the law has not been generally enforced against this form of property, leaving real estate to carry the burden."

"Under the new constitution this would be cured. It authorizes the legislature, in lieu of the present uncollectible taxes on intangible property, to levy a uniform tax upon the owner's income from that property. To the extent that increase taxes thus are obtained, the tax on real estate could be reduced."

"Almost the only persons in Illinois who are paying full personal property taxes upon their intangible holdings are the widows and orphans whose property is in the hands of the Probate court or held in trust, and who, therefore, cannot conceal such property."

LOW PRICE CUTS
KANSAS WHEAT
ACREAGE FOR '23

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 29.—Kansas farmers have sown 11,116,000 acres of wheat this fall, according to the first acreage report of the season issued by J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture.

This is 7.89 per cent less than the record acreage of a year ago and the fourth largest in the state's history, being exceeded only by the fall sowings of 1921, 1920 and 1918, the report says. The decrease is ascribed by growers to the low price of wheat and dry weather.

The condition of the new crop is estimated at 71.1 per cent of normal.

RED COMMANDER
FETCHES PEACE
TO VLADIVOSTOKUborevich Pleased by Aid of U. S. Consul.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

VLADIVOSTOK, Nov. 29.—It has been a month now since the Reds came into Vladivostok and the policy of peaceful readjustment is being carried out as promised by Gen. Uborevich, commander of the Red army and the military head of the new government of the maritime province.

Gen. Uborevich is a quiet mannered man. Unless one knew of his military accomplishments it would be difficult to believe that it was he who defanged the British forces in the Archangel adventure and so effectively put an end to Gen. Dierberg's efforts to stay his entry into Vladivostok upon the arrival of the Japanese last month. His troops are under perfect discipline, and his rule in Vladivostok has been enforced without any friction worth mentioning.

Interview with Commander.

"It was a great and joyful day for Russia," Gen. Uborevich said. "We have brought our frontier to a natural line. We have put an end to all the tortures, sufferings, and deprivations of the last five years, due solely to the activities of foreign capital and its efforts to subjugate the Russian people. These foreigners tried to blockade our ports and to starve us into submission to their capitalistic designs, and in this they have been supported by an element of reactionary Russians now scattered among my troops. The Russian people are anxious for a peaceful restoration of our country."

Japs Show Courtesy.

"Even those who have been prevented by forceful occupation from achieving their ends and to try to make amends. Although Lieut. Gen. Tachibana, commander of the Japanese army of occupation, had departed previously to my entry into the city, he sent to me a cordial letter in which he wrote:

"I feel great joy because I leave you without any armed collisions between your troops and mine. As an explanation of the fact that we succeeded in avoiding bloodshed I refer to your humanitarian and just orders. I expect early restoration of friendly relations between Japan and Russia, and I wish you every success."

The foreign consul here also expresses a similar view.

U. S. Consul Writes.

"The American consul wrote me: 'It must be confessed that the entry of your army into Vladivostok was triumphant in the extreme. This has given me the impression that law and order will prevail, and I hope that in this direction this office may cooperate in every way possible.'

"From such expressions as these you can see that it is not squarely up to us that we prove worthy of the confidence of the foreign powers. We shall not shirk our responsibility and will prove by our presence in the maritime province that we seek not only an end of warfare, which all of us despise, but also the speedy regeneration of Russia and its resumption of trade and other relations with the rest of the world."

Gen. Uborevich refrained from all criticism or condemnation of the Japanese and seemed, as do all the other Russians, to believe that it took time to be rid of them and to make no peace against them for any part the Japanese may have had in supplying the Whites with arms and ammunition out of the vast stores which the army of occupation had been guarding here. The Reds signed a receipt for these stores without even taking an inventory.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening griping diarrhoea are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the standard test of breath.

Olive Tablets are merely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 1c and 2c.

SEES PROSPERITY OF U.S. CONTINUED BY LEGION'S AIMS

Owsley Issues Message of Thanksgiving.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—In a Thanksgiving day message, issued here tonight, Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, set forth a program of public measures indorsed by the American Legion calculated to assure continued integrity of American institutions and prosperity for the American people.

The list of objectives given in the message, coming from the nation's 600,000 disabled war veterans; cultivation of loyal American citizenship through education and consequent equality of opportunity; adequate physical development and instruction for the nation's youth; exclusion of immigrants for a period of years; restoration of army personnel to the minimum fixed by the defense act of 1920; adjustment of wartime compensation, and cooperation of the American Legion with the International Association of Allied Veterans of the World War in the effort to bring about a better understanding among civilized nations.

Legion Asks No Charity.

In referring to the disabled-war veterans, Mr. Owsley said:

"The Legion asks for no charity for the disabled; the Legion calls for justice."

Declaring the American constitution the "most effective instrument yet devised for the expression of the will of all the people," Mr. Owsley pointed out that "equality of opportunity is a necessity of a free people," and that "equality of opportunity can only be arrived at through equal opportunity of education." He said that of the 25,000,000 children of school age in the United States, many millions do not attend school regularly and many are compelled to fail too.

"Already the Legion has effected legislation for compulsory school attendance," he continued, "and has assisted greatly in the enforcement of such legislation. We shall continue until child labor has been supplanted by child growth, development, and study throughout the land. The Legion has undertaken a campaign against illiteracy."

Fresh Air and Playgrounds.

"There must be fresh air and sanitation in the cities," he said. "There must be parks and playgrounds; there must be adequate physical instruction in all the schools, and the Legion is working to this end."

Discussing army personnel, the national commander declared "the men of the Legion are out of sympathy with the policy of economy that would cut our military defense below the safety line defined in the defense act of 1920."

Mr. Owsley asserted that it is the will of the American people that the war veterans be given an adjusted compensation, "and they have expressed that will in no uncertain terms on every opportunity offered them."

"There is no shadow of doubt," he added, "in the coming of this national adjustment of compensation."

BUILDING GROWS IN IOWA CITIES; LAGS ON FARMS

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 29.—Indications of the remarkable building revival now in progress throughout the state are conclusively shown in the number of new residences built in the state last year, amounting to an 85 per cent increase over the number built in 1920, according to figures compiled by J. H. Sands, state housing commissioner.

People are not only building new homes but better homes, cost figures show, Mr. Sands states, showing evidences of a trend toward prosperity in the state.

Most of the revived building activity has taken place in the cities. On the farms the problem of deflated prices has kept construction down, most farm owners satisfying themselves with repairs.

The figures for the months of September and October draw from the fifteen principal cities of the state show that 309 permits for family dwellings were issued in September, and six apartment house permits. In October 237 single dwelling permits were issued and five apartment permits. The October building in Iowa was a 65 per cent increase over the building done in 1921.

These figures do not include office buildings, a great number of which are being erected, Mr. Sands says. In Des Moines alone three office buildings, one of eighteen stories, the other two of fourteen and twelve stories respectively, are being erected.

Police Chief Offers Job to Pastor Criticizing Him

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 29.—(Special.) W. H. Jackson, Ossining's police commissioner, unable to cope with bootleggers, has offered his job to the Rev. Henry Grattan Dockrell, pastor of the First Baptist church here, who has been one of the leading critics of dry law violations in the town. Commissioner Jackson said the town was not "clean enough to suit" him and that rum peddlers' flagrant operations had driven him to distraction. "Every court in the land is throwing a protecting arm about the saloon keeper," he said.

"I was perfectly willing to meet with the council and do whatever is right," Davis said. "But after investigation, I found that the pastor is determined not to spend taxpayers' money before it is authorized. He is likely to live in the half furnished palatial home for some time to come."

The last legislature appropriated $11,500 to repair and refurbish the mansion, which has not been occupied by a governor since Gov. Hodges was the state executive. Now all of the appropriation has been spent for remodeling the house and there were no funds left for furniture.

The state executive council, in an effort to relieve the situation, asked Davis to meet with them and make plans to purchase the furnishings on credit. Davis refused.

URGE NEW PLAN FOR FINANCING IMPROVEMENTS

Aldermen Have Scheme to Cover Many Years.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The council finance committee is expected, within sixty days, to formulate and announce a policy of financing needed street improvements for several years. At least that is what some of the leaders desire to do. A part of this group, who fear the effect of high taxes in seeking reelection, want the policy submitted to the voters for approval.

It is the custom in Chicago to pay part of the cost of major street improvements from bond money. The city is at the approximate limit of its borrowing power. Therein lies the difficulty. With the same amount of power, bonds due and are paid each year, and new bonds may be issued. This process permits the city to spend between $5,500,000 and $7,000,000 a year, between 1923 and 1927.

How Aldermen View It.

Some aldermen think that it is fast enough to spend money on major street improvements of the Chicago Plan commission's program. Other aldermen want to see, before spending money devoted to building bridges, straightening of the Chicago river, extending and improving the street lighting system, and modernizing the equipment used in collection of the city's wastes. If bond money is taken for these purposes there will be that much less for street improvements.

In the five major street improvements now under way, South Water and Robey streets, Ashland, Western, and Ogden avenues, large amounts of bond money will be needed. South Water street, it is now estimated, will cost $20,000,000 or $22,000,000. It is estimated that the bond issue of $3,500,000 is insufficient to pay the public benefits. How much more will be raised by bonds has not been determined.

Ogden Avenue Situation.

With the money available for Ogden avenue, probably no work will be done on Goose Island. President Faherty of the board of local improvements has estimated that $7,000,000 more will be needed for the two bridges and the viaduct across Goose Island. Robey Street improvement hasn't been started, except for some "extorting" and none has made a guess on what they will eventually cost.

The plan commission Tuesday recommended the widening of La Salle street, between Washington street and Lincoln park, at an estimated cost of $11,500,000. It added that the longer the improvement is delayed the more it will cost.

Want to Know the Costs.

Accordingly conservative aldermen want to know with definiteness and reliability how much the executive departments propose to spend on street improvements of the plan commission's program in the next few years, how much bonding power will be available each year, and what other permanent improvements—toogether with estimated cost—should be made in the same period.

Before the voters approved of the issuance of $3,400,000 in bonds for bridges and $2,000,000 for street lamps this year and the issuance of $2,500,000 in water certificates, it was reckoned that the city would have a bonding

AMERICAN JEWRY ADVANCE NEARER BOUNDARY PACT

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—David A. Brown of Detroit, one of the commissioners selected by American Jewry in April to tour Russia from the Black sea to Finland to investigate conditions in the famine districts and industrial conditions in the principal cities, returned on the Olympic.

He said that unless relief was given to Russia this winter, it would be worse than last year because the people had used up their fuel supply, sold all their furniture, eaten their horses and cows, and had practically nothing left to fall back upon. Famine would also be felt, he said, in districts that were not touched by distress last winter.

Need American Tractors.

In a statement prepared on the return voyage, Mr. Brown said:

"Fifty thousand American tractors and an organization to teach the people their use will do more than a hundred million dollars' worth of food-stuffs to save the Russian people from starvation and put them back on the road to economic independence."

Before the war Russia was countenancing the use of tractors, industrially now she is a thousand years behind.

Actually she cannot come back or catch up immediately, but agriculturally her immediate resources are about limitless. Beggars, starving, plead for bread in a land where fields lie idle for want of a plow; where not hundreds but thousands and tens of thousands of acres, rich as any of the wheat or corn lands of the middle west, grow up to weeds.

Keep Alive by U. S. Charities.

Plows, plows, and more plows are needed to solve Russia's present problem. Today Russia is being kept alive by American charity. She is a beggar and bankrupt nation, with untold assets lying within a foot of the surface, waiting for the plows to give the Midas touch that turns them into gold.

"In 1916 Russia possessed 7,350,000 plows, and in 1921 only 2,750,000. It is admitted even by the Russian government that approximately 8,000,000 will help this winter. Unless we continue our activities, the deaths by starvation and disease will be greater than last winter."

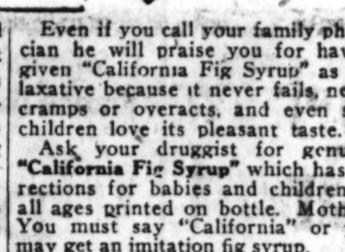

Echo of Elwell Murder Mystery in Two Arrests

New York, Nov. 28.—[Special.]—An echo of the unsolved murder of Joseph Bowell Elwell, whilst expert, was heard yesterday. Two men who claim to be Frank Merino and Joseph Dunn, both of whom were serving long prison terms for the killing of Elwell, were arrested when patrolmen found them on the porch of a house at 325 West 75th street. The house is the home of Albert Strauss, a banker.

BUSINESS MEN TO STUDY TRADE OF WORLD AT ROME

International Chamber of Commerce Meets.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special]—About 200 American business men are expected to go to Rome next March to attend the second general meeting of the international chamber of commerce. They are prepared to advocate a forward looking program for the restoration of international trade, it was stated here today at the headquarters of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

These business men, it was said, realize that the American government is doing all it properly can to stimulate and revive industry in Europe; but working independently of the government, although not at cross purposes with it, they believe they should do their part to help work out a constructive program under which the United States and Europe will be able to enjoy the fruits of a peace won at the cost of millions of lives and billions of dollars.

Questions to Be Studied.

Among the questions for consideration at the Rome meeting on March 18, where the business representatives of thirty nations will participate, will be the economic rehabilitation of Russia and the renewal of trade with that country; essential conditions requisite for the stabilization of currencies; financial measures for the revival of world commerce on an extensive scale; restrictions of imports and the export trade; and measures for the improvement of sea and land transportation.

Chicagoans to Attend.

Among the American business men from Chicago who are planning to attend the Rome meeting are Burridge D. Butler, publisher; G. Watson French, John M. Glenn, secretary Illinois Manufacturers' Association; Samuel H. Hastings, Herman H. Hettler, president Illinois Manufacturers' Association; Frank W. Howes, R. P. Lamont, president American Steel Foundries; Charles H. MacDowell, president Armour Fertilizer Works; George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board, Continental and Commercial bank; Silas H. Strawm, Harry A. Wheeler, vice president Union Trust company.

PERSIA NEEDS U.S. CAPITAL, HER ENVOY ASSERTS

Persia's needs, if she is to have her hopes of rehabilitation, and the advice and help she looks for from the United States, were recounted by Mirza Hussein Khan Alai, Persian minister to this country, in a talk before the Foreign Commerce club of the Northwestern University School of Commerce.

"Persia has suffered through her geographical position," said Mr. Hussein Alai. "She has been torn apart between the west and savage peoples from the east. Though neutral, she was made a battle ground during the war. She gains importance from her position, however, as the country through which east and west commerce must pass. A peaceful world needs a strong and peaceful Persia."

ALASKA'S LACK OF TRANSPORT RETARDS GROWTH

Needs Ships, Railways, and Highways.

BY BOB BECKER.
ARTICLE XV.

Separated by foreign land as well as by water from the United States, Alaska's problem of transportation is vital and urgent in its relation to the development of the territory. Adequate steamship service and lower freight rates are absolutely necessary if the operation of the new government railroad is to be a success. But how lower rates are going to be secured is a question that has baffled practical minds for many years.

The course of Alaska, according to the steamship companies, is no return cargo. Everything going in but nothing coming out. Ships sailing from Seattle or Vancouver go north or less well loaded during the summer months, but except for several cargoes of salmon and herring and copper concentrates they have practically nothing to bring back from the territory. There are no cargoes of grain, no loads of coal or merchandise.

Why Rates Are High.

During the winter months ships making Cordova, Valdez and points to the westward are loaded light even on their "going in" trips. As a result of this uneven transportation situation the steamship companies say that they must maintain the present freight rates in order to make any money, so today you find Alaskans complaining from one end of the territory to the other about the prohibitive freight rates which are sapping the very life of the territory.

Three steamship companies, two American and one Canadian, serve Alaska as common carriers. The Canadian line is devoted primarily to tourist travel and trade with the Yukon and last summer handled more than 3,000 persons who wished to see some of the wonders of the Northland. This company operates some beautiful steamers on the Alaska run and catering especially to tourists has captured the bulk of the northern travel. As they do not run boats to the westward, that part of Alaska now being served by the new government railroad feels that it is not going to get much of the tourist trade until improvements are made in the present steamship services furnished by the two American companies.

And this is another cause for complaint against the transportation situation today. Unless adequate boat service is instituted for tourist travel the government railroad cannot hope for any appreciable amount of business of this sort.

Country Lacks Highways.

After landing on Alaska soil you find the question of land transportation even more serious than the problem of water travel. Here is Alaska all dressed up with some place to go and no way to get there. They have a railroad to travel on, to be sure, but no wagon or automobile roads to speak of connecting with the railroad. Roads and more roads are needed, and until they are built vast areas in the interior will remain a wilderness and resources of gold and copper untouched.

A railroad operating in a country devoid of roads and trails will obviously never pay and if Uncle Sam expects to see his new Alaska line return anything on the investment he must be prepared to spend millions on good highways.

The building of these as well as trails is being pushed by the Alaska road commission with territorial cooperation, but their appropriation is small compared to the amount needed.

The bureau of forestry has secured funds for roads in national forests and they are also constructing highways, but the program of road building, even with these two agencies active, is not near as comprehensive as Alaskans want it if the territory is to be aided quickly and materially in its development.

Placer Mining Decreases.

Although Alaskan progress has been retarded by a combination of governmental neglect, economic causes due to the war and decrease in placer mining, the lack of transportation is fundamental.

Residents of the interior have munched dogs over winter trails these many years when they feel they should have had roads to travel on. With good automobile highways through the territory, with the world given a chance to learn that Alaska is not a monumental iceberg, the land of flowers and romance in the summer months and with Uncle Sam willing to extend a helping hand, Alaska feels that it will increase in population and productiveness and again take its place in the sun.

FRANCE-ITALY, ROW OVER NAVY JARS AUSTRALIA

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A dispatch from the Times from Bendigo, Australia, says Premier Hughes in a speech there made reference to reports that France and Italy might not ratify the Washington conference treaties.

"If that is so," the premier declared, "it will be a blow to Australia which may prove vital to our existence."

The dispatch adds that Mr. Hughes seemed about to continue on the subject but that he checked himself.

STALLIONS FIGHT DUEL TO DEATH IN SHIP'S HOLD

Sailors Look On as Big Black Kills Rival.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Officers and men of the steamship Marigold which reached Newark today from Buenos Aires with its decks crowded with horses, were still talking of a battle fought at sea when two days out, between two huge stallions and which ended in the death of one worth several thousand dollars.

Through some carelessness in stowing the horses the two foals, a black and a bay, were placed in adjoining inclosures.

Their natural wildness through a life on the broad pampas of Argentina was increased by the excitement of strange surroundings and throughout the first day of their incarceration in the dark hold of the ship shillie neighing followed by the drumming of hoofs on the stanchions and bulkheads sounded continuously.

EQUINE RIVALS MEET.

At last, driven to a frenzy by the rolling of the ship, the black snapped the head chain, and plunging backward, crashed through the wooden bar behind him. His first act on gaining his freedom was to sink his teeth into the flesh of the bay in the next stall, and maddened by pain the latter also broke loose.

Then a battle between the two commenced, which lasted for hours and threatened the lives of the other horses as well as those of the men who sought to end the combat.

Up and down in the narrow passageway between the rows of stalls the two plunged, now and then rear ing to strike with their front hoofs and again wheeling to lash out with their heels. At length they reached a clear space underneath an open hatch around the edge of which the crew clustered to watch the final round.

BLACK LANDS KNOCKOUT.

After circling cautiously about each other for a time, wildly writhing for strength like two horned bulls, the black suddenly turned and crushed down with both hoofs on the head of his adversary. The other stood dazed for an instant by the impact, and in that moment the black seized his advantage and fastened his teeth in the back of the bay's neck, the death grip sought by wild horses as instinctively as the bulldog goes for the throat of his rival.

Despite the frantic efforts of the crew to separate the pair the black bore steadily down until the bay's head was pressed against the deck. Then came a sudden twist of the black's head, a sharp crack was heard, and the bay lay with a broken neck. His blood lust satisfied, the black was led quietly back to his stall.

ASK WRIGLEY SEEK HARDING'S AID FOR WOODFILL.

The Cook County Association of the American Legion has wired on behalf of the 120 posts of which it is composed to William Wrigley Jr., at present in Washington, asking him to be their representative before the President in asking for the restoration of Sergt. Woodfill's war rank of captain, so that he may retire as captain instead of sergeant.

TONS OF SWISS CHEESE ARRIVE ON ONE VESSEL.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Eight hundred and forty thousand pounds of Swiss cheese was the chief freight item on the Kroonland, which arrived from Antwerp, Southampton, and Cherbourg. There were 2,089 tiers of the cheese, each tier weighing in the neighborhood of 400 pounds.

TRADED SAVINGS FOR FAKE CHECK.
Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Herrin, Illinois, arrives Saturday morning, and Sammamish, alias Paul Tervo, Monday night at St. Joseph, Mich. Sammamish was wanted at Milwaukee on a charge of mail robbery. But Paul Tervo is an aged Italian woman. He got her, it is alleged, to exchange her life savings for a check on a Lodi, N. Y., bank for a sum of $1,000. The check was signed by Paul Tervo. There were no funds for Paul Tervo in that bank.

HEAVY CUTS IN ATLANTIC SHIP FARES DUE SOON

Slower Vessels Will Reduce Tariffs.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Reductions of 10 to 20 per cent are involved in the new trans-Atlantic fares reported as agreed upon recently at a meeting in Brussels of the passenger steamship lines, it was learned in local shipping circles.

Circulars defining the rates are being prepared for issuance to ticket agents early next month, and meanwhile the changes are being kept secret, but it is known that the new fares will be $5 to $20 lower for both first and second cabin passage.

Not all ships are affected, but mainly those of the older and slower types. The monster liners retain rates at approximately the present levels, and it is understood the Majestic's minimum first class rate will be increased $5. The purpose of the changes, in short, is to widen the gap between fares on the luxury liners and those on more modest though not necessarily less comfortable ships.

It is hoped thus to bring about a more even apportionment of the travelers over the various trips. Fares on the less popular ships have been so grossly thrown off the scale favored liners that during the slack seasons the latter have been sailing with their cabins half to two-thirds filled whereas the others have had as little as 10 per cent of their accommodations taken.

Some of the specific reductions are $5 for the George Washington and $10 for the America of the United States lines; $10 for the Kroonland and Finland of the Red Star line and corresponding readjustments for a large number of White Star, Cunard and French liners.

CANINE LOVERS PLAN COLLECTION OF DOG STORIES

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Miss Lucy Salmon of the history department at Vassar college, and a few other friends of dogs have decided to begin a collection of facts about dogs, to be given to the Vassar college library.

"It is hoped to include in the collection," says Miss Salmon, "appreciations of dogs that have become famous in literature, like Dr. John Brown's 'Rob and his friends.' Personal tributes to the affection and intelligence of dogs like John Muir's 'Stickmen'; stories of dogs locally well known like Matthew Vassar's 'Life of Poor Tip'; tales of campus dogs, whose friends have been numbered by the thousands, like Katherine Lee Bates' 'Sigurd, our olden collie'; accounts of the heroes among dogs, like those of the St. Bernards of the Alps; biographies of all dogs which have endeared themselves to others and have been commemorated in literature."

Among his American sitters will be the daughters of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cyril Hatch and Lady Dukes, the daughter of Mrs. David Dows, and the daughter of Sir Philip Duvene.

to a certain
portly old gentleman

Dear Santa Claus:

Knowing the difficulties you have had in pleasing certain persons at Christmas time, we make the following timely suggestion:

Look over your gift list and see who writes. Send to these worthy gentlemen and gentlewomen, an EVERSHARP or a WAHL PEN—or both in the same design, if your heart is full. We guarantee exquisite satisfaction, for, between us and the North Pole, there are no finer writing instruments than EVERSHARP and WAHL PEN. EVERSHARP has the exclusive rifled tip that grips the lead. WAHL PEN has the sensational-new all-metal barrel that cannot crack or split.

Look again over your gift list—and give a WAHL PEN to every one to whom you gave an EVERSHARP last year. Both are made in gold or silver, in the same beautiful designs, and match perfectly. You can choose from 90 styles of WAHL PENS. Any dealer can supply velvet-lined GIFT BOXES in which EVERSHARP and WAHL PEN can be presented singly, or together, as writing sets.

YANKEE'S LARGE CONCESSIONS IN ASIA AT STAKE

Big International Business Fight at Lausanne.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
Copyright 1922 by The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—A fascinating story of how the shadows of former Kaiser Wilhelm and his grandsons scheme for a Berlin-Bagdad railway are being fruitfully cast on the Lausanne conference, is being elaborated by French correspondence at the Swiss conference.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm persuaded Sultan Abdul Hamid to withdraw the vast mining and railway concessions he had granted to Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester of the United States navy in 1910. The former Kaiser was jealous of the prospective American commercial domination in Asia Minor, and, after winning a diplomatic scramble with England, he started German capital to building a line to Bagdad.

Real Fight at Lausanne.

All the most valuable rights included in the Chester concession were later included in the Turkish concession given the Turkish Petroleum company, which was owned by German and British companies. The fight at Lausanne is between these two rivals.

The state department is backing the Chester interests to the hilt, while the British are backing the Turkish Petroleum company, which is now controlled by the Anglo-Persian and other British oil companies.

The historical facts in the struggle between these two huge business interests follow.

History of Struggle.

Rear Admiral Chester became an intimate of Abdul Hamid when he was sent to Constantinople on the battleship Kentucky in 1899 in connection with the damages caused to American missions during Armenian massacres. The American officer was impressed with a belief that animosity was stirred up among the Turks by innumerable interventions of the sultan on behalf of concessionaires and missionaries, and that there were opportunities to open business for men of a country which did not practice intimidation against Turkey.

Rear Admiral Chester returned to Turkey in the service of American business interests and, profiting by his knowledge of the Turkish character and the good relations, which he had established with the sultan, he obtained the consent of the Turkish government for vast concessions to exploit the principal resources of Asia Minor, particularly Argana copper mines and Mesopotamian and Armenian petroleum fields.

U. S. Navy Trains Officers.

The American government assisted the rear admiral by arranging to have some Turkish officers have training in the American navy.

In the final form the Chester concession embraced the right to build a railway from Silvas to Van by way of Kharput, Argana, and Diarbekir, with branches to Mosul, Kirkuk and Sulaimanya, the latter two towns being in the heart of the Mosul fields. Another branch was to be built to Alexandretta. The concession also included all mineral oil found within thirty miles along the right of way.

Then the former kaiser not only persuaded the sultan to withdraw the concession but Abdul was overthrown by the young Turks. Rear Admiral Chester took up his concession with the young Turks, and it was approved by two grand viziers. The project was up before the new parliament in June, 1911, when the Italo-Turk war broke out. This conflict was followed by the Balkan wars.

English-German Company.

The Turkish Petroleum company was founded in 1912 by English and German capital, England and Germany having forced Turkey to give the company concessions in countries in Bagdad and Mosul, but these concessions also were before the Turkish parliament when the great war broke out.

Neither the Chester interests nor the Turkish Petroleum company held clear and definite titles and, with the war, the German interests in the latter disappeared, but were given to the French at St. Remy. The American government protested bitterly at being excluded from the Mesopotamian fields, which the Sea Reme agreement implied.

Rear Admiral Chester began to treat directly with Angora with the encouragement of Washington. The Admiral's son, Arthur, is now negotiating. The Chester concession remains the base for American claims in Asia Minor, while the Turkish Petroleum is the base of the British claim.

Independently, however, the Standard Oil company began negotiating with the Anglo-Fersian company for a share of the Turkish petroleum.

YOUNG WIFE DISAPPEARED.
V. H. Barnett, 10 West Erie street, has asked the help of the police to find his wife, Mrs. Florence E. Barnett, 24 years old, who disappeared Monday after going downtown to see the re-enactment of "Cimarron."

Their Golden Day

MR. AND MRS. J. L. SMITH.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith, 2511 West North avenue, celebrated their golden wedding yesterday at the Wicker Park Lutheran church, of which they have been members for thirty-eight years.

A dinner was given for 200 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have two sons, three daughters, and seventeen grandchildren.

CHILD CHOKED TO DEATH.

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 29.—(Soc. Int.)—While eating peanut candy today Wayne Woher, 1 year old, son of Andrew Woher, choked to death when bits of the candy caught in his throat.

THOUGHT HE HAD KILLED MAN WHO KILLED HIMSELF

Huntington, L. L., Nov. 29.—(Soc. Int.)—The shooting here Monday night of Rose Sandrisser, by her fiance, John J. Leitch, and the killing of Leitch, had a strange denouement yesterday.

Edgar Scudder, Miss Sandrisser's host, who had fired at Leitch with a shotgun because he believed Leitch was trying to kill Mrs. Scudder, was in jail, believing himself a slayer and bewailing his unhappy connection with the tragedy. Then an autopsy developed that Leitch had killed himself with the same pistol with which he mortally wounded the girl.

Deceived by Second Shot.

Daylight and skillful surgery disclosed that, while scattered round shot from Scudder's gun had inflicted minor injuries on Leitch as he sat in his automobile, there was a hole through Leitch's head torn by a .45 caliber steel nose pistol bullet. Merely like the bullet which injured Miss Sandrisser so badly that her death is expected momentarily.

Two features contributed to the belief, held for hours by Scudder himself and by every one concerned, that he had slain the young man. One of these was that when Leitch, after fleeing, had stopped at the Scudder home where he shot the girl and jumped into a automobile, fired a second time. Both Scudder and his wife believed the shot was aimed at Mrs. Scudder, and more particularly at Mrs. Scudder, who had denounced him for shooting the sweet-heart from whom he had just received back his engagement ring.

So Scudder, in reality, shot at a dead man.

When Sheriff Anna Biggs informed Scudder he was innocent, Scudder at first could not be made to believe his ears, and when the cell doors opened for him he was a happy man.

Dead Man Keeps On Driving Car.

The second queer circumstance was that, although Leitch, who had started circling the Scudder home the instant he jumped into his car, must have died instantly, the car with a dead man slumped over the wheel kept on traveling. It was that motion which led Scudder to believe Leitch was still alive, fired a second time. Both Scudder and his wife believed the shot was aimed at Mrs. Scudder, and more particularly at Mrs. Scudder, who had denounced him for shooting the sweet-heart from whom he had just received back his engagement ring.

So Scudder, in reality, shot at a dead man.

When Sheriff Anna Biggs informed Scudder he was innocent, Scudder at first could not be made to believe his ears, and when the cell doors opened for him he was a happy man.

Kellogg's Bran means so much to the health of every one who eats it!

Start eating Bran today! You can't afford the delay of a day for B.R.A.N.—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, is nature's own remedy for constipation.

Eliminate constipation or intestinal gripes from your system and you add years to your life. Free yourself of illness that can be directly traced to this distressing condition!

Authorities state that 90% of human illness has its beginning with constipation, which clogs the eliminative passages, backing up poisons and creating toxic conditions. At this stage the blood becomes affected and then follows the disorder of various organs. Bright's disease, diabetes, most cases of rheumatism, hardening of arteries, headaches, brain fag, etc., are directly caused by intestinal poisoning.

Pills and cathartics can give no adequate relief. They are not only temporary in their effect, but tend to aggravate already dangerous conditions. Kellogg's Bran causes neither discomfort nor irritation, and its action is absolutely positive. Bran sweeps and cleanses and purifies! Its taste is wonderful!

Physicians endorse the use of Kellogg's Bran for constipation because it relieves intestinal gripes, stimulates the bowels, tones the body, and removes wastes. A cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, or in many other appealing ways, such as in soups, puddings, salads, etc. Recipes on every box. All grocery stores sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and crumbled, with 100% bran. Bring home P. S.—Kellogg's Bran, eaten regularly, will clear up a pimply complexion and overcome an obnoxious breath.
